SEVEN INDICTMENTS IN WAR CANTONMENT CONSTRUCTIVE PROBE

Among Those Accused
Grand Jury

MILLIONS INVOLVED

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—"My only feeling is one of surprise and indignation," said Benedict H. Crowell, assistant secretary of war under Newton D. Baker, discussing his indictment this afternoon for alleged war frauds. "I don't know what they are talking about."

"So far as the other men indicted with me are concerned, they are of the highest integrity. As to charges that I profited personally thru any contract let or completed during the time I served the government, they are wholly and absolutely false."

"My only acts in connection with any of these contracts was that of final approval. I had a man in whose judgment and honesty I still have every confidence, see every contract, and acted on his report. However, I accept full responsibility for every one of my acts."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The special federal grand jury which for many weeks has been delving into frauds perpetrated upon the government in the construction of war cantonments, today indicted seven men, all prominent in the

BOOTLEGGER SENDS FOR VALISE; PLENTY OF DEFENSE FUNDS

SHELBY, O., Dec. 30.—Lester Elston, charged with having made the poisonous alcohol which caused the death of Ralph Longley and the serious illness of several others a week ago today, proudly declared that he would not lack for funds to hire lawyers to defend him.

When Elston opened his valise brot to his cell from his home at his request, it was found to contain:

Twenty shares Whitney Tractor stock; $70 in Shelby Seamless Co. scrip; six shares Ohio Seamless Tube common; two shares Ohio Seamless Tube preferred; $70.25 in war savings stamps; $450 in Liberty bonds; $1,637 in currency.

AUTO SKIDS OFF ROAD; N. CASTLE MAN INJURED

French Berry, of New Castle, received a dislocated shoulder and was badly bruised about the body and legs, when the Ford automobile in which he was riding skidded and turned over just a few rods from the covered bridge between Warsaw and Randles station.

The accident occurred on the Warsaw side of the bridge at the left side of the road coming to Coshocton. The car skidded over a steep embankment.

The man was brot to Coshocton and given medical attention at the office of Dr. Lester Pomeroy. He was not seriously injured.

Icy roads caused his car to skid and go to the left of the road while he was bound toward Coshocton.

Kerosene To Be Used To Kill Lily Pads On Florida Pleasure Lake

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 30.—Mirror Lake is to be cleared of the tons of lily pads floating on its surface. The City Commission has purchased 15,000 gallons of kerosene with which to do the work.

Mirror Lake is one of the prettiest bodies of water in South Florida, but floating lily pads gained a foothold in it a few years ago and spoiled it for pleasure craft. Numerous ways have been suggested for ridding the lake of this nuisance. The city recently voted $4,000 for this purpose. About one third of it was expended in various experiments, when it was discovered that kerosene is fatal to lily pads when freed on the surface of the water. The lily pads rapidly die and then absorb most of the surplus oil. When the pads have been killed they will be removed and burned.

ARM FRACTURED

Much improvement was shown Saturday in the condition of Elizabeth Lorenz, daughter of Mrs. T. H. Lorenz, Coshocton, who sustained a fractured left arm Thursday when she fell from the porch of C. D. Brooke, Vine-st.

Dr. J. G. Smalley is the attending physician.

DENIES GUILT

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—"I shall have nothing to say until I learn the nature of the charges against me," said Benedict Crowell, former assistant secretary of war when informed of his indictment.

"I am not conscious of any guilt. My conscience is clear."

By EUGENE J. YOUNG

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Humanity, with the shock of the great war still deadening it to any but the most extraordinary sensations, probably looks on the year 1922 as somewhat slow and boring, a period of waiting for something real to happen; that would mean progress for the world. Pessimists such as H. G. Wells have not hesitated to say the only real progress has been in the direction of decay and chaos.

Yet, looking back over the twelve-month and assessing what actually has been accomplished, there is plenty of reason for optimism. Marked advances have been made in the right direction—on the road to peace and freedom. I wrote last January 1 that 1921 had been the year of the return to reason. I am now able to write of 1922 as the year of gain for democracy.

That is the outstanding fact. In this period the great American republic has fought a battle with the imperial tradition in the Far East, the Near East and Europe. In every contest imperialism has been beaten and we have gained new territory for the practice of

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO SEE MOVIE FILM AT CENT'L SCHOOL

The Boys' Work Committee of the Rotary Club Saturday extended an invitation to the public to view the motion picture which will be shown at the Central high school auditorium Monday evening, beginning at 7:15.

The picture entitled, "Give the Crippled Child Its Birthright," outlines the work being done by the Ohio Society for Crippled Children and the Rotary Club for young cripples.

The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will attend the show in a body.

The local Rotary club is one of eight clubs in District Eight, of Ohio which are sponsoring a convalescent hospital at Zanesville, where a 12-room house and 14 acres of land have already been donated to the cause by R. C. Burton. It will be known as the Burton hospital.

The hospital will be public, and any crippled child from Coshocton needing care during convalescence will be eligible. It is believed that the hospital will be fully equipped and in operation by the end of 1923.

FORD PREDICTS A PROSPEROUS YEAR

DETROIT, Dec. 30.—Get rid of the old attitude of "My good man here's a shilling for you," and pay wages—the highest wages. That is what makes prosperity.

This is Henry Ford's advice to the American business man, contained in a New Year's message made public tonight. The business outlook is favorable, Ford says.

FLU IN WEST VA.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 30.—With 300 cases of influenza at Princeton and a number in other communities of the state, Dr. W. T. Henshaw today instructed all physicians to make full reports of cases to the health department.

REAL "LEAGUE OF NATIONS" FAMILY

St. Paul, Minnesota, lays claim to the most remarkable family in the world, consisting of all girls, sisters, and two guardians. Fifteen years ago the Reiff sisters, Misses Minna and Henriette, had a spacious home that was too large for them. They adopted a little German girl and found the experiment so interesting they have since adopted three Scottish girls, a French, Finnish, Bohemian and Canadian girl. Top row left to right: Emma and Muriel, of Scotland; Dorothea, of Germany; Amy, of Scotland. In the second row: Ernesta, of Bohemia; Margaret, of France; Miss Henriette Reiff, Amelia, of Canada; Miss Minna Reiff, Elizabeth, of France, and Marika, of Finland.

New Year Brings Hope Of Better Business To Factories, Farms, Stores

Leading Men of Business And Industries Predict Improvement of Conditions Already On Upgrade—Labor Supply Sufficient, Wages Good

All industries in Coshocton are looking forward to the new year of 1923 as one full of promise—a year that will be the most prosperous since the war. Even the farmer is feeling hopeful, statements from men interested in the various industries indicate.

The first eight months of 1922 were admittedly depressing in all lines. During the last four months of the year, business conditions have improved greatly, local manufacturers say. Many of the manufacturers are not anticipating any further improvement during the coming year, declaring that continuation of the conditions that are now existing is all that can be hoped for.

Wages are expected to remain stationary here. With but few exceptions, there have been no reductions during the past year, and in some instances increases have been made.

As a rule, the manufacturers report little difficulty in obtaining an adequate supply of labor. Factories employing women experience the greatest need for help. From this

PAST BUSINESS YEAR WAS A PERIOD OF FULFILLMENT, SAYS BRADSTREET'S ANNUAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Nineteen-twenty-two may be properly styled "a year of fulfillment," in that its early promise of being a "fair" year in trade and industry was abundantly verified. It was irregular enough, including periods of

U. S. CHEATED OF MILLIONS BY CONSPIRACY IN BIDDING FOR SURPLUS WAR STOCKS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Charges of different classes of materials that junk dealers in a number of cities had conspired to cheat the government in buying war surplus supplies at auction sales, will be laid before grand juries as basis for indictments, it was learned at the department of justice today. The charges relate to purchases

THREE RESCUED AT THE FIRST BASIN

Three lads named Wilson, east Vine-st., Giffen, north Ninth-st. and Jarvis, south Fifth-st., narrowly escaped being drowned Saturday afternoon when the ice on which they were skating on the first basin, gave way.

Two of the lads fell thru the ice when they tried to rescue the third boy. After receiving a good baptizing, help arrived in time to rescue the lads and they were brot to shore safely.

A call was sent to the Hanlon undertaking establishment that the lads were drowned, but before the ambulance had had time to answer the call, the news came in that the boys were rescued.

HARDING OPENS PRISON'S DOORS TO 'POLITICALS'

Eight Followers Of Big 'Bill' Haywood To Leave United States

MUST NOT RETURN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Eight members of the I. W. W. convicted at Chicago for violations of the national espionage laws, and now serving varying sentences in federal prisons, were extended executive clemency today by President Harding on the eve of the new year.

Those receiving clemency are the so-called "political prisoners" in whose behalf an unending campaign has been conducted for three years.

All those released were identified with the "Big Bill" Haywood case. Those to be released and the sentences they are now serving follow:

- A. V. Azura, 20 years.
- G. J. Bourg, 10 years.
- Peter Green, 10 years.
- Charles L. Lambert, 20 years.
- Harry Lloyd, 5 years.
- Burt Lorton, 10 years.
- Sam Scalet, 20 years.
- Archie Sinclair, 10 years.

Attorney General Daugherty announcing the pardons said all of the prisoners are subject to deportation. The president, commuted the sentences of each one to the term already served, upon condition that they be deported and never return to the United States, Mr. Daugherty said.

The president imposed the further condition that if any one of them does return, the commutation shall thereupon become null and void and of no effect, he would be apprehended and returned to prison to serve the remainder of his sentence.

Daugherty said the prisoners are to be allowed sixty days in which to arrange their personal affairs before their deportation.

They will be required to give bond to the secretary of labor to surrender at a given time and place specified in the orders for deportation.

The men probably will be released tomorrow after complying with the conditions.

HENRY WOLFE TO HELP RED CROSS FEED REFUGEES

Henry C. Wolfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wolfe, 225 north Fourth-st., who has recently returned from Samara, Russia, where he has been located for the past year, associated with the American Relief Association, expects to sail Saturday, January 6 for England. From England he will be sent to Greece, probably Salonika, serving in the Red Cross Mission. His work will embrace the feeding and care of refugees made homeless thru the Turkish-Greek war.

Mr. Wolfe expects to leave Coshocton Tuesday.

FINE SUSPENDED ON PROMISE OF GOOD BEHAVIOR

A fine of $100 and costs which was placed against Wesley Mathany, Fifteenth-st., by Mayor W. S. Tish on a charge of disorderly conduct, was suspended by the mayor Saturday, on Mathany's promise of future good behavior.

The fine was assessed on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct. Mathany's wife interceded for him Saturday, and obtained the suspension of the fine.

ROBERTS RELEASED

George Roberts of this city, and a disabled ex-soldier who was brot before the mayor in Zanesville Friday on a charge of indecent exposure of person, in that city, was released from that court and the case dismissed without Roberts paying a fine.

After Roberts told his story to a local member of the Disabled Veterans of the World war post, Norman Eble, an officer of the local post called the chief of police of Zanesville Saturday and investigated his case. Roberts was exonerated. Roberts has been taking treatment at a Zanesville sanitarium.

Dec. 30.—"What's going to happen in 1923?"

That question is uppermost in the minds of 1,000,000 American businessmen and investors who are facing the problem of making plans for the New Year.

Signs are not clear and the usual barometers seem to contradict one another.

In the face of this general confusion we had best fall back on the facts and figures. After a thorough study of the fundamental conditions that govern our market, Roger W. Babson today issued a statement which clears the air and furnishes a basis of fact for your plans.

"We are now at a point in the business cycle," says Mr. Babson, "where you can get almost as many different opinions as there are business men. Some are very bullish for the coming year, and others cannot see much hope for business. The reason for such a situation is that we are at present neither at the top of a boom nor at the depth of a depression. If we were at either of these extremes there would be no question of what the next move would be. As it is, we

AGED WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD ON FLOOR BY SISTER

When Mrs. Jacob King of Fresno went to the room of her aged sister, Mrs. Susan Layman, Saturday noon, she found her lying dead on the floor. Mrs. Layman, who was 79, had been in splendid health up until a few days ago, when she first complained of being ill. During the morning, Mrs. King had visited her sister, and had found her sitting up in a chair. A stroke is believed to have been the cause of her death.

Mrs. Layman's maiden name was Susan Burke. She was born in the Fresno vicinity, where she spent her entire life with the exception of a few years, when she made her home in this city. Since the death of her last husband, Sylvester Layman, two years ago, she had made her home with her sister.

Mrs. Layman had been married four times, and lost all of her husbands by death. She was a steadfast Christian woman and was admired by a host of friends.

Of a family of 14, only two of Mrs. Layman's brothers and sisters survive. They are Mrs. Jacob King and William Burke of Fresno. Three sons, Joseph Kaser of West Salem, G. W. Darringer of Fresno Route 1, and Henry Lower of Orville; fifteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren survive.

Funeral arrangements will be made as soon as word is received from her sons.

of the coal and railroad last spring and summer. As far as this survey indicates there is nothing in the business and industrial outlook for 1923 to cause foreboding.

International questions, such as a settlement of European entanglements, may play a large part, but their influence is still in the future. Business has resumed and its steady flow to the sea of prosperity appears certain.

Large banks and business leaders, interviewed, unite in saying that the time to do things is now and that opportunity, after an absence of two years is back knocking at the door of every man, waiting only on him to open.

Summaries of reports received from Ohio cities follow:

Cleveland—Employment, bank clearings and deposits increased. Wholesale merchants report most prosperous fall in years.

Cincinnati—Collections and sales 75 per cent better than a year ago. Industrial plants running full time with exception of machinery tools trade which has improved 75 per cent over 1920. Rolling mills, lumber manufacturers running over time. Extensive building program with normal employment. No strikes, and cost of living decreased, indicates 1923 as year of prosperity.

Akron—Prospects for 1923 in rubber business indicates increased business over 1922, which averaged eighty per cent of peak production. Twenty-four million tires produced in 1922 and this will be materially increased next year. Other industries back to normal. No unemployment. The wholesale and retail business greatly improved. Bank clearings, building and other lines largest in history.

Dayton—Building for past six months $500,000 in excess of any year for last five years. Automotive and cash register plants running.

ning overtime. Other business and employment normal except in some agricultural lines where depression is still felt.

Toledo—Can absorb 20,000 more workers within sixty days and only a scarcity of skilled workers or common labor can prevent an exceptionally busy year in 1923.

Columbus—Business 80 to 85 per cent normal. A year ago only 60 per cent. Practically no unemployment and gradual improvement is looked for.

Youngstown—Some steel mills planning extensions for early in new year. Plants are operating 85 per cent of normal and labor all absorbed.

Canton—Most industries operating with full time with some running overtime. Shortage of skilled steel workers and labor fully employed. Conditions in all lines show great improvement.

Finlay—Brisk demand for labor in all lines. One hundred and fifty new homes built in last six months.

DRINK WATER WHEN YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Stop eating meat for a while if your bladder is troubling you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. An excess of meat may form uric acid, which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and clogged. When your kidneys get sluggish and clogged you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water stains and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then at last find relief. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, of frescent-tasting water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

Bank deposits highest in history, totaling $11,000,000. Nine improvement over year ago practically 100 per cent. Every industrial plant working. Bank deposits increasing.

Gallipolis—Everyone employed, but farmers disappointed with prices and conditions. Business satisfactory.

Coshocton—All industries running absolutely full and good prospects for continued operation. Retail business satisfactory.

Mansfield—Retail trade improving the not yet normal. Savings deposits increasing. Employment steadily increasing and steel plant unable to get sufficient labor. Bank resources increased $1,250,000 in three months.

Urbana—Factories operating full capacity. Industrial conditions greatly improved.

Bucyrus—Additional gains being made in manufacturing over year and three months ago. Large demand for brick and machinery used in construction work is noted.

Steubenville—Slight shortage of labor reported by industries, which are running practically normal. Continuous improvement shown for past year.

Fostoria—Industrial plants now at peak. Seneca Wire Co. building addition to make room for 350 more men. Other industries employing more men. Merchants' sales nearly double same months last year.

New Philadelphia—Skilled men needed at steel plants. Industries normal. Business good and improvement continues.

Lancaster—All industries working full time. Few idle men.

Portsmouth—Improvement in every line of industry, except agriculture. Much house building but serious housing shortage. Retail merchants have good business.

Zanesville—Industrial activities now fully equal peak record and 20 to 25 per cent greater than a year ago. Substantially no unemployment. $10,000,000 electric plant building at Duncan Falls will give city power for existing and new industries. Several new industrial plants just opened and others building.

Bellefontaine—All industries on full time. Railroad shops busy. Farmers still feel pinch of relative prices, and are dissatisfied. Retail trade shows good increase.

Marion—Industries operating full time. Retail business good. Building above average. Very little unemployment. Conditions better than last year and nearly equal to peak. Outlook for next year very good.

Tiffin—Outlook for industry good. Business near normal.

Middletown—Industry responds to greatly improved conditions. Payroll normal both as regards number of men and amount. Manufacturers have substantial orders on their books, assuring continued activity in new year.

Lorain—All factories normal. A sharp unmet demand for skilled and unskilled labor. One plant, normally working 700 men, now employs 1,500. Another to resume operations with 1,000 men. Business conditions good.

Marietta—Conditions improving. Retail trade better than last year.

Wadon—Business slow. No change in industrial conditions which are about 85 per cent normal.

Newark—Conditions improving. Retail stores having excellent trade.

Defiance—Little change in the last six months, and no change in prospect. Business hampered by dull outlook for farmers.

DAILY NEWS LETTER

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers At Home and Abroad

By ELLIS H. MARTIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30—California's first Congresswoman will be a representative of Labor.

Mrs. Mae Nolan, widow of Congressman John I. Nolan, will have the united support of Union labor in her campaign for the seat in the House left vacant by the death of her husband. The present outlook is that on January 23 Mrs. Nolan will be elected both for the unexpired term of her husband and for the new term from the Fifth Congressional District, which takes in part of San Francisco—a labor stronghold. In addition to Mrs. Nolan six male candidates have entered the list.

Mrs. Nolan will go to Congress with the firm purpose of carrying on the work begun by her husband. Congressman Nolan was one of the foremost spokesmen of Labor at the national capitol. He was strongly considered for the post of Secretary of Labor when President Harding was making up his cabinet. He for years was a high official of the International Molders' Union.

When he died there were five humanitarian measures closest to the heart of the California Congresswoman.

They were:—

A law fixing a minimum of $3 a day for Government employees.

The Johnson-Nolan constitutional amendment to end child labor.

An equal wage law for women in the Government service.

A law providing for Federal employment agencies to end the ineffectiveness of workers by fee-gathering employment agencies.

The soldiers' bonus.

These measures will have Mrs. Nolan's earnest support—their advancement to her a work of love.

Mrs. Nolan is a "home woman." She has never campaigned before. She frankly confessed in discussing the prospects of her election that she was a wee bit frightened at the prospect of public speaking in Congress. But she has no thought of shirking this part of the task.

"I think I shall manage it," she told a newspaperman. "If I am elected I mean to be a real Congresswoman and make speeches the same as other members."

Mrs. Nolan, of course, will have the aid and support of other prominent members of the California delegation in Congress. She has already been assured of this. She hopes also to have the same support at the national level.

Her husband was always accorded her husband.

"The legislative committee called every day on Mr. Nolan, and I hope they will be equally active in keeping me posted on what other wants," she said.

"I know I shall take a real joy in going forward in the labor that my husband started and in doing what I can to complete the work he had started."

"Bridging the Bay" is a perennial topic in San Francisco and the numerous bay regions. Situated as it is on a peninsula, San Francisco is cut off by water from the rest of California except on one side.

The "Chinese Wall" some engineers have called it the solution. Daily about one hundred thousand persons cross the bay to Oakland, to Sausalito or Vallejo. It takes time, and it costs money if you have an automobile to go by boat. Hence the universal demand is for the bridging of the bay.

There are almost as many schemes as there are engineers. Some of the great engineers in the world have devoted study to the possibilities of bridging the bay. All have agreed upon its feasibility.

Then plans have differed. Some have suggested a trolley bridge, a combined trolley and bridge. Eventually there will be not one bridge but several. One unquestionably will connect San Francisco with Oakland and the great East Bay and the great East Bay.

Another will connect San Francisco with Oakland and the great East Bay and the great East Bay.

end, which would swing 200 feet above the water, with a main center span of the unprecedented length of 4,000 feet. Of this 2,540 feet would be by cable. There would be two shore spans of 1,320 feet each. The bridge would be eighty feet in width. The towers for the bridge would be taller than Eiffel Tower and would have elevators for sightseers.

The cost of the proposed bridge is estimated at $20,000,000.

For floors there is an excellent composition imitating marble and tiles, in all colors and grains. There are chimney-pieces of sculptured stone and marble-chests, lampstands and innumerable objects of ornament. Wood is made by the same process—panels for doors, ceilings and furniture—and, more than this, old woodwork, which enables historic chateaux and churches to be restored in perfect taste and with infinitely less expense. After ornaments, old ivory crucifixes and candelabras, which give the exact reproduction of the real material in color and substance, preserve all the delicate touches of the artist.

Metallized glassware is another specialty of this house, which is introducing the new process. CREOLE BEAUTIES AND SONGS SCORE IN "FOLLOW ME"

That "Follow Me" was the best colored show that ever played at the Sixth-street theatre, was the opinion of the theatre-goers who witnessed the performance at the theatre Friday night. The show was far better than the average musical comedy shows that have played on the local stage in years.

The show was comprised of two acts and ten changes of scenes. The scenery, though not elaborate, was not of the shabby kind most of the musical comedy shows carry.

The entire production was moved with considerable pep but not too much to overdo the performance. The chief fun makers were Billy Higgins and Clifford Ross. The latter Williams had nothing in the comedy line on these two comedians. The entire performance went over with a bluff, boom and bang and the enjoyment never waned.

The chorus of creole beauties contributed much to the success of the show. A number of high class solos were sung by both the men and women of the cast. The song numbers that pleased and stood out from the rest were "Blue Bird," by Lola Young; "Voodoo Man," by Billy Higgins; "Te May Be Your Man," by Flo Dade; "Why Should I Cry Over You," by Lola Young, and "Loki," by Alice Gorgas. The "Follow Me" quartet rendered several pleasing numbers to the satisfaction of the audience.

The most effective scenes were the "Snow Storm in Alaska," which was the finale to the first act, and the Chinatown scene in the second act.

"Follow Me" left last night for Pittsburgh, where it will play a week's engagement, beginning New Year's day.

Detroit factories will dismiss employees piecemeal. Instead of en masse to aid in relieving street car congestion.

Will Mayo dare apply Ford's latest suggestion to the street car lines—cut the fares one-half? Mayo refused to comment when asked about it.

When Ford announced a few months ago the price of the "flyver" would be cut below the cost of production, many business men predicted nothing but disaster for his company as a result. Right now Ford is making more money than ever before thru increased sales.

Now he suggests the same method be employed in the street car business.

"Cut the fares one-half, and force the people to ride street cars," is Ford's plan for making the M. O. successful. "With the fares so cheap thousands who now drive automobiles would ride street cars."

render an impartial, non-political report on Germany's ability to pay.

It is around this proposal that informal conversations and feelers have been in progress in the capitals of Europe for some weeks.

Thus far, the French government has been distinctly cold to the proposition, but the opinion is held by some of the president's closest advisers that if the United States were formally and publicly to propose such a solution, with the combined backing of Great Britain, Italy, Belgium and Germany herself, and accompany it with objections to French military action in the Ruhr, Premier Poincare would be forced to change his attitude or accept the disagreeable alternative of seeing France morally isolated among the leading world powers.

It is not believed that the French government could long withstand the combined moral and diplomatic pressure that could be exerted against it to come into line.

It matters little, officials said today whether the work of such a group of experts would be called "an economic conference," or "an economic commission." That part of it is also of small concern to Senator William E. Borah, who caused all the furore in the senate by his insistence that President Harding call an economic conference.

The difference, in Borah's opinion is the difference between two-tenths and two-tenths of a cent.

"The difference between an economic conference and economic experts is not apparent to me," he informed the international service.

"A rose by another or any other name smells just as sweetly. I am perfectly well satisfied with the situation. I feel as if I were in the position of the man who sat back and waited for the cat to jump, feeling he knew all the time which way the jump was coming."

No world conference to deal with a variety of economic and financial problems will be called by this government. That much seemed certain today. President Harding is personally opposed to such a parley, unlimited in scope or direction and Secretary Hughes is even more opposed to it.

Nor will any conference, for that matter, be called to meet in Washington, according to the Whitehouse. The field of operation for whatever conference or commission is formed is in Europe and the administration is convinced that it should meet in Europe. While the United States will not officially be represented in the meeting of premiers in Paris on Tuesday, nevertheless Ambassador Herrick will keep President Harding and Secretary Hughes fully informed on the progress of the meeting, and it is entirely probable that Herrick will play an active though unofficial part in the proceedings.

The absence of the United States, officially at least, from the Paris meeting of premiers is in line with the Harding-Hughes policy of letting Europe settle Europe's problems, if that is possible, without American help.

When it is apparent that these world problems cannot be settled without American aid, then the United States can be expected, it was stated officially today, to come forward with remedial suggestions.

SEVEN INDICTMENTS IN WAR CANTONMENT CONSTRUCTION PROBE

Asst. Secy. of War Among Those Accused by Grand Jury

MILLIONS INVOLVED

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30. — "My only feeling is one of surprise and indignation," said Benedict H. Crowell, assistant secretary of war under Newton D. Baker, discussing his indictment this afternoon for alleged war frauds. "I don't know what they are talking about."

"So far as the other men indicted with me are concerned, they are of the highest integrity. As to charges that I profited personally thru any contract let or completed during the time I served the government, they are wholly and absolutely false."

THIS YEAR'S AUTO TAGS MAY BE USED UNTIL JAN. 25TH

At the request of the secretary of state and the state registrar of automobiles, the local police department has agreed to permit the use of 1922 automobile tags up until January 25, 1923, it was announced by Chief Ray Duling, Saturday.

In explaining the request, the state officials say they are unable to furnish sufficient tags at present because of the fire which destroyed many of the tags.

Part of the letter received by Chief Duling follows:

"The vehicle license department at the state institution was destroyed by fire in November, and with it 500,000 1923 finished plates. It was impossible to install new equipment before December 15. The plant is now running night and day and it is hoped that by January 25 a sufficient supply will be available for all vehicle owners."

By EUGENE J. YOUNG

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Humanity, with the shock of the great war still deadening it to any but the most extraordinary sensations, probably looks on the year 1922 as somewhat slow and boring, a period of waiting for something real to happen. That would mean progress for the world. Pessimists such as H. G. Wells have not hesitated to say the only real progress has been in the direction of decay and chaos.

Yet, looking back over the twelve-month and assessing what actually has been accomplished, there is plenty of reason for optimism. Marked advances have been made in the right direction—on the road to peace and freedom. I wrote last January 1 that 1921 had been the year of the return to reason; I am now able to write of 1922 as the year of gain for democracy.

That is the outstanding fact. In this period the great American republic has fought a battle with the imperial tradition in the Far East, the Near East and Europe. In every contest imperialism has been worsted and we have gained new territory for the practice of democracy.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO SEE MOVIE FILM AT CENT'L SCHOOL

The Boys' Work Committee of the Rotary Club Saturday extended an invitation to the public to view the motion picture which will be shown at the Central high school auditorium Monday evening, beginning at 7:15.

The picture entitled, "Give the Crippled Child Its Birthright," outlines the work being done by the Ohio Society for Crippled Children and the Rotary Club for young cripples.

The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will attend the show in a body. The local Rotary club is one of eight clubs in District Eight, of Ohio which are sponsoring a convalescent hospital at Zanesville, where a 12-room house and 14 acres of land have already been donated to the cause by R. C. Burton. It will be known as the Burton hospital.

The hospital will be public, and any crippled child from Coshocton needing care during convalescence will be eligible. It is believed that the hospital will be fully equipped and in operation by the end of 1923.

New Year Brings Hope Of Better Business To Factories, Farms, Stores

Leading Men of Business And Industries Predict Improvement of Conditions Already On Upgrade—Labor Supply Sufficient, Wages Good

All industries in Coshocton are looking forward to the new year of 1923 as one full of promise—a year that will be the most prosperous since the war. Even the farmer is feeling hopeful, statements from men interested in the various industries indicate.

The first eight months of 1922 were admittedly depressing in all lines. During the last four months of the year, business conditions have improved greatly, local manufacturers say. Many of the manufacturers are not anticipating any further improvement during the coming year, declaring that continuation of the conditions that are now existing is all that can be hoped for.

Wages are expected to remain stationary here. With but few exceptions, there have been no reductions during the past year, and in some instances increases have been made.

As a rule, the manufacturers report little difficulty in obtaining an adequate supply of labor. Factories employing women experience the greatest need for help. From this

A call was sent to the Hanlon undertaking establishment that the lads were drowned, but before the ambulance had had time to answer the call, the news came in that the boys were rescued.

HARDING OPENS PRISON'S DOORS TO 'POLITICALS'

Eight Followers Of Big Bill Haywood To Leave United States

MUST NOT RETURN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30. —Eight members of the I. W. W. convicted at Chicago for violations of the national espionage laws, and now serving varying sentences in federal prisons, were extended executive clemency today by President Harding on the eve of the new year.

Those receiving clemency are the so-called "political prisoners" in whose behalf an unending campaign has been conducted for three years.

All those released were identified with the "Big Bill" Haywood case. Those to be released and the sentences they are now serving follow:

- A. V. Azura, 20 years.
- G. J. Bourg, 10 years.
- Peter Green, 10 years.
- Charles L. Lambert, 20 years.
- Burt Lorton, 10 years.
- Sam Sgralatt, 20 years.
- Archie Sinclair, 10 years.

Attorney General Daugherty announcing the pardons said all of the prisoners are subject to deportation. The president commuted the sentence of each one to the term already served, upon condition that they be deported and never return to the United States, Mr. Daugherty said.

The president imposed the further condition that if any one of them does return, the commutation shall thereupon become null and void and of no effect, he would be apprehended and returned to prison to serve the remainder of his sentence.

Daugherty said the prisoners are to be allowed sixty days in which to arrange their personal affairs before their deportation.

They will be required to give bond to the secretary of labor to surrender at a given time and place specified in the orders for deportation.

The men probably will be released tomorrow after complying with the conditions.

A fine of $100 and costs which was placed against Wesley Math-thany, Fifteenth-st, by Mayor W. S. Tish on a charge of disorderly conduct, was suspended by the mayor Saturday, on Mathany's promise of future good behavior.

The fine was assessed on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct. Mathany's wife interceded for him Saturday, and obtained the suspension of the fine.

AGED WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD ON FLOOR BY SISTER

When Mrs. Jacob King of Fresno went to the room of her aged sister, Mrs. Susan Layman, Saturday noon, she found her lying dead on the floor. Mrs. Layman, who was 79, had been in splendid health up until a few days ago, when she first complained of being ill. During the morning, Mrs. King had visited her sister, and had found her sitting up in a chair. A stroke is believed to have been the cause of her death.

Mrs. Layman's maiden name was Susan Burke. She was born in the Fresno vicinity, where she spent her entire life with the exception of a few years, when she made her home in this city. Since the death of her last husband, Sylvester Layman, two years ago, she had made her home with her sister.

Mrs. Layman had been married four times, and lost all of her husbands by death. She was a steadfast Christian woman and was admired by a host of friends.

Of a family of 14, only two of Mrs. Layman's brothers and sisters survive. They are Mrs. Jacob King and William Burke of Fresno. Three sons, Joseph Kaser of West Salem, G. W. Darringer of Fresno Route 1, and Henry Lower of Orville; fifteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren survive.

Funeral arrangements will be made as soon as word is received from her sons.

ROBERTS RELEASED

George Roberts of this city, and a disabled ex-soldier who was brot before the mayor in Zanesville Friday on a charge of indecent exposure of person, in that city, was released from that court and the case dismissed without Roberts paying a fine.

After Roberts told his story to a local member of the Disabled Veterans of the World war post, Norman Eble, an officer of the local post called the chief of police of Zanesville Saturday and investigated his case. Roberts was exonerated. Roberts has been taking treatment at a Zanesville sanitarium.

PAST BUSINESS

over the preceding year's aggregates, in some instances new high records being set up, and trade volume was undoubtedly larger than in 1921. Retail trade proved better than expected, considering the claimed reduction of purchasing power on the part of the agricultural interests. Throughout the year collections appeared rather backward and never averaged better than fair, with slowest marked and long continued in many sections. Many measures of more money showed gains over 1921, although but few exceeded those of some earlier flush years. Following two years of liquidation, the progress made as a whole was encouraging, and a good normal level was reached in many lines. Frozen credits were pretty well melted, but the record number of failures, and next to largest volume of liabilities ever recorded were evidences alike of continuing strain in many lines of business and of cumulative effects of past mistakes, over-buying, under-consumption and other evils revealed by the slump following after-war inflation. By and large, the year will probably be remembered as a year of improvement (though some of this was rather painful progress) in most lines, and all things considered, a far from unsatisfactory twelve months.

A number of big features stand out prominently in a review of the past year. As not uncommon in other years of readjustment, it was characterized by severe labor troubles. Over 1,000,000 men voluntarily abandoned their work, the bulk of these in protest against reduced wages, and the biggest strike, that of coal miners proved successful. Despite the disorganization that flowed from this and the railway shopmen's strike, the latter a failure to all appearances. For the first time in history, it was claimed to have been demonstrated that there were not enough manual workers to go around, the latter development a harbinger of war and later of law restricted immigration. This was in striking contrast with the year before, when 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 people were reported either displaced or idle. This forced in this position, the labor movement, as their chief spokesman, prevented the often stated deflation of wages. So the war was the country financially and so all kinds of supplies, this year, however, that business and industry both made wonderful gains after depression. Industrial workers, who had been severely constrained by the war, but particularly by the war, had been restricted.

during the war period, was proved by the unexampled volume of expenditure in filling this vacuum. Several times throughout the year, prediction that the housing supply had reached or passed demand was proved erroneous. Never before in the country's history, also, was there such an output of that one-time termed luxury, the automobile. Continuing the immense investment buying demand of the latter part of 1921, the bond markets, despite reactions due to advances in money rates, did a new high record volume of business. Liberty bonds reached par in mid-year and the Victory notes were refunded. The stock market, which had risen quite steadily from the summer of 1921, reacted in the autumn of 1922, losing some of the advance. Sales exceeded both 1921 and 1920. New enterprises floated compared well with 1921, but did not equal recent previous years. A veritable snow storm of stock dividends were issued, totaling in excess of $1,500,000,000. Foreign trade, and particularly export business, apparently affected by the unsettled state of business and politics in Europe, sagged early and proved discouragingly slow in expanding, although November exports, swelled by cotton shipments, were the largest since March, 1921. Disorganization in the exchanges was visible at times, but British currency later made a notable recovery to almost par. The pushing and going into effect of a new tariff was a notable event, but the expansion in import trade in anticipation of this was smaller than expected. Crops, with few exceptions, were good, in some instances of record size, and total values, affected by generally higher levels of quotation, were better than in 1921, but little more than half those of 1919. Foreign demand for our wheat, particularly for our wheat, proved disappointing until rather late in the past year, largely owing to the competition of lower prices of our northern neighbors, Canada, which had a plentiful crop and high quality. Part of this was undoubtedly due to the contraction in the late summer and early autumn on our railways, mainly due to the coal and steam strikes, which prevented prompt marketing. Many other staples, such as export, showed heavy decreases, and exports as a whole were the smallest since 1915. At various times during the year, however, in high prices cited numerous advances as beneficial and stimulative of buying, but in many notable cases, these included in building materials, automobile and iron and steel, that the general improvement was had first in attractive reductions of costs. Handicapped as they were by strikes and freight rate reductions, certainly no fault of their own, the roads made a game and patriotic fight in the desperate emergency growing.

out of the coal and shopmen's strikes, and, losing in gross receipts, showed a good gain in net operating income, not enough, however, to give them more than 4 of the theoretical 6 per cent return on their investment.

It was said with justice in 1921 that those branches of trade which had first reflected depression or unsettlement in 1920 were among the leaders in the rally visible in the latter portion of 1921. These trades, the textiles and kindred in industries, had a very full share of the improvement shown in 1922, and particularly found stimulation in higher prices for the raw materials—cotton, wool and silk; but the year was notable mainly for what are called the construction trades—iron, steel, lumber, building materials—generally leading in the improvement to an extent not visible in recent preceding years. It is probable, indeed, that a large measure of the all-around improvement visible throughout the year was based upon the activity in the constructive trades. Most of these, and especially building, with its numerous allied lines, were what might be called ready-money trades, and well and frequently paid labor, which constitutes so high a percentage of all construction cost, was the chief proflifer. This seemed to create a veritable flowing well from which general business drew stimulation and consequent activity.

Looking Forward.
 As to the constructive side of the future, it may be said that the big feature is naturally the notable degree of betterment shown and the optimism generated thereby in the past year and a half, or say since July 1, 1921, when it is now generally agreed, the beginning of improvement first became clearly visible. Satisfaction arising from the surge forward in domestic trade and industry in 1922, perhaps best evidenced in the wonderful year's operations in building and allied lines, has strengthened the feeling that this activity will continue well into 1923. How much more might have been accomplished in the country had not had to shoulder the terribly expensive coal and railroad strikes, or, of course, not a subject to dilate upon now. The continuance at a faster rate of the 1921 rally in prices has been comforting, as frequently noted, but is because proving that, after all, there are two sides to the picture. The rally in prices during the autumn, especially in leading farm products, unquestionably served to lighten the agricultural interest, which had theretofore apparently profited little from the year's improvement. There is visible now a great deal less worry than a year ago as to all costs of operation in view of the apparently slight visible effect of these on business in the past year, this despite the feeling that labor will make a great deal if present prices hold. How much effort the general increase in all costs has had in further reducing the admittedly discouraging volume of export trade does not seem to attract the attention it deserves. There is, in fact, a disposition to charge the unsettled conditions in European politics, and consequently in exchange, with most of the responsibility for this unsatisfactory buying from abroad. In this respect the gains shown in trade with other parts of the world fail to satisfy entirely. Unquestionably, feeling as regards foreign markets for American products has been favorably influenced by the rise in British exchange and the rumors that this country is going to abandon its much trumpeted, but apparently untenable, position of political and economic isolation.

On the other hand, there is no shutting the eyes to the fact that organized labor, buttressed by existing immigration laws and its successes of 1922, is inclined to press demands, which can only result in much industrial friction in the year to come. The most direct threat of this kind is that the nation's fuel supply will be reduced by strikes again in April next. The agricultural interest, with the feeling that it has been most hurt owing to the low prices secured for most of its products, and with hopes of success from bloc movements, is reported as aggressive in demanding special legislation. The prospects of a radical bloc in Congress which may possibly throw the country into politico-economic turmoil are not reassuring. Whether this threatened activity among the political witch doctors and medicine men will result mainly in talk, as it has done in most other years following long-continued economic troubles, witness the years following 1873 and 1893, remains to be demonstrated. That good old serep-eagle statement that this is a government of laws, not of men, may this year, however, prove to be something more than merely a bitter jest. There really seems to have been a surfeit of laws, especially those involving new schemes of taxation, passed in this country of late years, and something like a truce in this respect would be welcomed. The comforting reflection, of course, comes that, after all, many of these man-made statutes are merely "written in water," that hard work, industry and common sense may have their price in the future as in the past, and that the laws of supply and demand, though often obscured, may be still effective. With the most serious economic crisis that ever faced this country apparently satisfactorily lifted over, with the evidences of the excellent progress made since midyear of 1921 in mind, and with three to six months of the new year's trade and industry fairly secure, the business world, imbued with a degree of optimism that verges upon confidence, faces hopefully the admittedly numerous uncertainties of 1923.

MABEL PELHAM STOCK COMPANY

For this week the Mabel Pelham Stock Co. will produce two feature plays beginning Monday with "Hearts of Gold," an Irish comedy. Giving each member of the clever company parts well suited to them. The play will be mounted nicely with special lighting effects. The last three days the company will appear in the comedy with a big lesson "The Girl He Couldn't Buy." This play made a sensation in New York and pleased thousands. It is worth your while to see this play. Mabel Pelham is certainly pleasing her audiences by her clever work and her company is far above the average. The vaudeville numbers between acts are good. You will never regret spending an evening with the Pelhams at the Mystic. Special midnight performance on New Year's eve featuring Little Katherine in "Katherine's Burglar."

GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE WIFE'S LIFE

POMEROY, Dec. 30.—Thomas E. Bowen underwent an operation and gave part of his blood in an effort to save the life of his wife who has been seriously ill for some time. Physicians say the operation and blood transfusion may be successful.

BUCHER'S HIGH TEAM DEFEATS SCIO QUINTET

Coshocton Boys Annex Fifth Victory While On Tour, Friday

In a game which was described as a rough and tumble affair, Coach Lester Bucher's Coshocton high school basketball quintet won its fifth consecutive victory of the season Friday night from Scio high school at Scio. The score was 21 to 10.

On account of the small floor and a low ceiling, team work and long shots were difficult of execution. The local quintet took the lead in the first few minutes of the game and was never headed off.

The first half ended with the score 10 to 5.

Purcell and Bretzius were the chief score makers Friday night. Each registered 3 field goals. The guards were given credit for assisting the forwards in making these scores. Squires at center dropped the ball into the receptacle twice.

The locals were scheduled to play the Carrollton high school quintet Saturday evening at Carrollton.

Coshocton basketball fans Saturday expressed pride in the good work of their high school team. Their good work is expected to draw a big crowd at the dedication of the new gym here in February.

Following is the summary and lineup:

C. H. S.	S. H. S.
Thornley	Spiker, Arbaugh
Wagner, Cooper	L. G.
Squire, Slaughter	Fisher
Bretzius	R. G.
Purcell, McConnell	Manbeck
Ut	C.
Ut	Woods, Dunlap, Spiker
Ut	L. F.
Ut	R. F.

Field goals: Coshocton—Thornley, 1; Wagner, 1; Squire, 2; Bretzius, 3 and Purcell, 3; S. H. S.—Ut, 3 and Manbeck, 1. Free throws: Purcell 1 out of 2 and Ut 1 out of 5 and Dunlap 1 out of 4. Time, 10 minute quarters. Referee, Hall, of Scio.

FORMER PENNA. FOOTBALL STAR KILLED IN CRASH

Girls Owe Lives To Men Who Opened Doors So They Could Jump

WOODBURY, N. J., Dec. 30.—Alexander Wray, center of the university of Pennsylvania football team of 1918 and Lewis Bruner, brother of William, another former Penn star were killed last night at North Woodbury, when a motor car in which they were riding was struck by an electric train of the West Jersey & Seashore R. R.

Miss Catherine Johnson, 18, of Philadelphia, and Miss Elizabeth Price, 18, of Washington D. C., narrowly escaped death thru the heroism of the two athletes who sacrificed their lives to open the rear doors of the car to enable the girls to jump out.

NEW YEAR

any revision in the wage scale. We have made no recent reduction, and at present I see no possibility for a change in the general wage schedule.

Pope Gosser China Co.
 George C. Mitchell of the Pope Gosser China Co. declares: "Last year was our slowest business period since the war. Potteries were the last to be struck by the post-war depression. Business is improving now and we are looking forward to a good year during 1923. We experience no trouble in obtaining labor. By granting our employees a 4 1/2 per cent increase in wages, we have settled the wage question until October 1924, and a year of steady employment is anticipated."

"I have just returned from a convention of pottery manufacturers and all are optimistic over the prospects for 1923. The old idea that imported china was superior to American made goods has been exploded at last, and we will benefit from that."

Coshocton Glove Co.

The Coshocton Glove Company, thru Melvin McKinley, reports that while they are operating all their plants to capacity, conditions in the glove industry for the past two years have not been altogether satisfactory. A little improvement has been noticeable during the past two months, and present indications are that business in their line will continue good during the coming year.

In addition to their plant here, they are operating plants at Uhrichsville and Newcomerstown and will have a plant in operation in West Lafayette within a short time, McKinley said.

H. D. Beach Co.
 The H. D. Beach Co. reports a lively business with prospects for its continuation through 1923. Plenty of labor is available to their plants and no change in their general wage scale is anticipated.

Hunt Crawford Paper Co.
 R. T. Hunt of the Hunt-Crawford Paper Co. says he is looking forward to an improvement in the paper business during the coming year. The company is experiencing no difficulty in getting labor, and does not expect to make any changes in its wage schedule.

Coshocton Brick Co.
 The general outlook for the brick business is promising. Allen Holmes of the Coshocton Brick Co. declares. The company is finding labor plentiful, and does not anticipate a change in wage scales during the coming year. If such a change is made, it will be due to a change in the value of the company's product, Holmes said. One advance in the wages was made during the past year.

Timmons Glove Co.
 Some difficulty in obtaining sufficient labor in Coshocton is being experienced by the Timmons Glove Company, according to Fred S. Timmons.

"Coshocton needs to wake up," he declares. "Steel and iron industries are needed to bring in more families. Coshocton is slipping 10 per cent in 10 years. Other cities are out grabbing new industries, and offering enticing inducements for outside capital. Coshocton should do the same."

Timmons said his plants were very busy, and that good business is expected during 1923. The new plant, recently located at Roscoe is giving excellent results, he said.

People's Ice Co.

J. S. Elliott of The People's Ice Co. states: "Our business was fairly good this year. In volume it fell far short of 1921. The decrease in volume was due to a number of things, such as labor trouble in our county and city; the installation of small refrigerating machines in meat markets, and the general depression of business in all lines. Thru close and careful attention to business the ice company was able to maintain good service and to pay a fair dividend on the capital invested."

"I believe the outlook for business in general for 1923 is far better than it was last year."

Novelty Adv. Co.

L. W. Leonard of The Novelty Advertising Co. reports: "Our business for 1922 has been very satisfactory. The early part of the year was a little slow but business has improved and we have been busy the entire fall season. We have worked continuously throughout the year and the amount of wages we have paid is considerably in excess of previous years. We are on a rising market in most commodities, which indicates a healthy condition. We have every reason to believe that the business for 1923 will be very good."

County Farm Agent

In declaring that there is a "light ahead" for the farmer, G. C. Musgrove, county farm agent gives out the following statement: "Following the World War, the united patriotic effort of the nation degenerated into a class selfishness—each group of individuals striving for the most for themselves, regardless of the unity and welfare of the whole."

During this period of class struggle, the farmer selling on a buyer's market was forced to take the lowest step of the ladder. His dollar went below par. The $77,000,000,000 invested in his enterprise returned a loss instead of a profit.

"Since the low mark of 1920, the value of the farmer's dollar has slowly but continually been rising. This rise has been greater during the past year of 1922 than in either '20 or '21, but we must yet go far before the farmer's dollar has reached par."

"Crops throughout the country this last year have been generally good, but prices have hardly been fair. Wheat has been produced below the cost of production. Hay is plentiful and low in price. Cattle and hogs are better. They are being produced and sold with some profit. Sheep sales are being made to advantage and with reasonable prices. Corn is the only grain crop that can be said to have returned any profit. Wool has sold at good prices, but was the first real money the farmer had seen for three years."

"It is our hope that the reconstruction tendencies shown during the last year will continue and increase during the coming year. Greater increase must be made during the coming year than was made during the past, if the farmer's dollar is to reach par during 1923. It is our hope that it will, but our fear that it will not."

"The prosperity of the nation is depending upon the prosperity of the $77,000,000,000 invested in agriculture. The $35,000,000,000 invested in the other enterprises of the country, including business and industry cannot be permanently prosperous, until the farmer is permanently prosperous."

BIRTH NOTE

ALABAMANS VICTIMS OF TRAGIC ILL LUCK

Family Seems To Be Haunted By Evil That Lays Low Many Of Its Numbers

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 30.—"Does some bird of evil omens shadow those who are associated with the Brewer family?"

This question has been asked many times, especially since the death of Charles Varner, a well-known planter, of Montgomery County.

Varner died of injuries received in a hay-press on his plantation.

Varner, several years ago, was alleged to have shot and killed Willis Brewer, Jr., son of the late well-known Congressman Willis Brewer. Varner was never brought to trial for the shooting, as evidence pointed to self-defense. Varner was fatally injured near the point where Brewer was killed.

The late Portis McKeithan, husband of Mildred Russell McKeithan, granddaughter of the late Congressman Brewer, was killed near here seven months ago, and, one of the family, Miss Mildred McKeithan, was killed here today. The killing was given as the cause.

proved to have been accidental.

Mrs. Ewing, aunt of Miss Mildred Brewer, is another victim of a tragic death. She died in an automobile accident. Dr. Payne Russell, father of Mrs. McKeithan, was shot on a passenger train near Haynesville, also near the scene of the other deaths that seem to have pursued the family.

With these incidents in view, it is little wonder that the superstitious wonder.

Prohibition Enforceable In Ports Of America

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Absolute prohibition is enforceable on American as well as on foreign ships entering American ports and waters, the government contended in a brief filed today in the United States supreme court by Solicitor General James M. Beck and other department of justice lawyers.

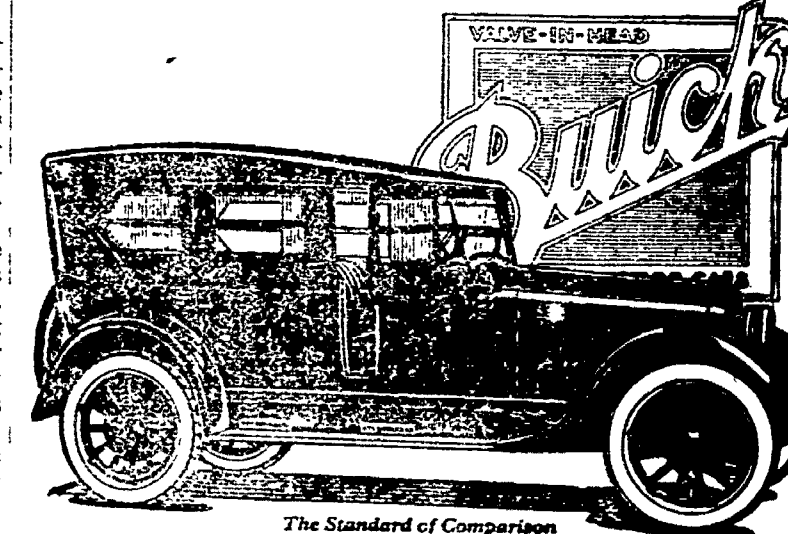

ILLINOIS TOWN HAS A BAD FIRE

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Dec. 30.—Half the buildings on the public square were razed today by a fire which caused damage estimated at $200,000.

Three firemen were injured. Shells exploding in the armory imperiled the firemen.

LAWYER A SUICIDE

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Boardman Hall, well known corporation lawyer, fell, and former Boston public official shot himself to death at his home here today. His health was and acquitted. The killing was given as the cause.

Driving Comfort in Winter

The Buick "Model 45" Six Cylinder—$1195

As complete as has been the development of the enclosed car, Buick designers have not neglected to improve the open type of car, building into it a measure of comfort, convenience and weather protection surpassed only by the more expensive closed vehicle. Protection against wind and snow is assured by the snug-fitting storm curtains that open with the doors. The Buick design of storm curtains with a special weather strip provides a continuous, comparable to that of any closed car, while windshield wiper and tight fitting windshield, adjustable from within, make driving safe and comfortable. Added to this, and equally important in winter driving, is the splendid performance that a Buick car always produces—its constant and surplus power—its roadability and perfect balance and its unquestioned dependability. For cold weather driving there is no superior to the Buick open car.

The Buick Line for 1923 comprises fourteen models.

HARP ENSEMBLE CO.
NEXT NUMBER ON LECTURE COURSE

The Harp Ensemble Co., composed of five women, will be the third number on the People's Lecture course. They will make their appearance the evening of January 1, at Grace M. E. church.

Three harps, a cello and violin permit strung instrument ensembles of exquisite tonal effects, and many instrumental numbers, including trios and quartets, as well as vocal numbers, are on the program.

The company was coached by Clara Louise Thurston, of Chicago, one of the most gifted harpists in the United States. Under Miss Thurston the company has built a program of classic and semi-classic numbers that have proved popular.

The ensemble singing of the harp to their own strung accompaniment is one of the most beautiful features of the entire program.

McKIN ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE IN BALTIMORE JAIL

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30.—Dr. B. M. McKin, is on the verge of a nervous collapse. The former mayor of Mer Rouge who was arrested here this week on the charge of murder in connection with the supposed Ku Klux Klan murders at Mer Rouge, has lost his nerve at last.

The patient prisoner looks any part but that of a former mayor of any city, or of a student of N. J. is for sale at a price of $6,000. The secretary prefers with shots of being taken back to the city of Newark.

VISITORS TO THE CEMETERY

usually most admire monuments of simple dignity and good taste. We are proud to say that very often memorials of our making are selected by visitors as the finest of all they have seen. Yet our work is not expensive. You will learn upon inquiry that you can procure a monument here for a surprisingly small sum considering quality of stone and workmanship.

Dr. McKin declares he is not afraid to face any court anywhere but in his home jurisdiction. There he fears there is no justice for him with the governor of the state and other minor officers predisposed against him.

PARIS NEWSPAPER
STAMPS HUGHES'
SPEECH AS UNJUST

PARIS, Dec. 30.—Secretary Hughes' speech on German reparations is viewed by the Temps as a result of election considerations. Commenting on the speech the paper bitterly declared that the Germans are not paying, France must nevertheless pay America.

"So unjust are Hughes' remarks," said the paper, "that he, with his jurist conscience, cannot consider them final. Why then did he propose it? Doubtless because election considerations forced him to it."

"SOCIETIES" WILL SAVE YOU IF YOU LIVE IN NEW YORK

By JOHN L. SPIVAK
NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—From the moment you are born until the moment you die you can't go wrong in New York. No matter what you do or want to do, there is a society that will save you from doing it. There are societies devoted to the saving of everything from babies, animals and souls to "indigent females," "friendless men" and "respectable girls." There is even one for the protection of non-smokers.

These societies, associations and organizations, numbering about 1,000, with their branches, save anything from souls to the Adirondack mountains. The innermost and most inner affairs connected with your life are subjects for being saved.

The incidental things in your life are also saved. For instance, if you lose your civil liberties there is a society to save them for you; should you need to be defended there is a society to defend you; and, perchance, should you need to be imprisoned society itself will oblige you.

There are societies to see to it that you are born properly, to protect you from getting bad milk when you are a baby, from being spanked when you grow older, from straying off the straight and narrow path when you mature, and from committing suicide when you should.

If you get sick, or drunk, or lost or "pinched" there is a society that will save you. If you are Irish, Jewish, Armenian or Czechoslovakian, and need relief, some one will relieve you.

There is a society to give you clothes when you lack them and another to take them away when you can spare them.

There is a society for free milk for Italy and temperance for Scandinavian sailors.

There is a society to save you from reading books that you shouldn't read and from going to places where you oughtn't to go, to save you from vice, poverty, sickness and the grave.

But if you should finally escape all these societies and die, there is one that will see to it that you are given a proper burial. And then, if that isn't enough, there is another that will investigate the activities of your soul in the life beyond.

In short, you can't go wrong here. You gotta be saved!

SAN FRANCISCO JUDGE WILL WAR ON AUTO SPEED FIENDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—"Jail for every automobile speeder regardless of who he or she is" is the solution of the speed problem offered by Judge Judge Sylvester McAtee as a result of his experience in police court in handling traffic law violations.

On top of this he would have a law enacted providing for an examination as to fitness for every person securing a license to drive an automobile.

"In San Francisco they have been killing people at the rate of one every three days," said Judge McAtee. "In Los Angeles it is worse. In other cities it is worse. That is a terrible toll to be taken by a single agency."

"Suppose the street cars were killing one person every three days. Just imagine, if you can, the telephone lines killing one every three days. What would happen?"

"Why, there would be such an upheaval that it would not be endurable until those conditions were stopped."

He told of his opening crusade against new drivers traveling 35 miles an hour. This has been reduced until now drivers traveling 31 miles an hour are put behind prison bars.

Judge McAtee pictured a child going as far along a line of conduct as permitted to go. He asserted that a man is like a child in this respect—that an auto driver will go just as fast as he is permitted to go.

Judge McAtee asserted the present campaign against recklessness should have been started a year ago. He shouldered his share of the responsibility for dereliction and declared:

"San Francisco is absolutely 100 per cent for law enforcement—on the other fellow."

Instances were cited of San Franciscans favoring enforcement so long as it did not touch them or their friends, leading to the establishment by Judge McAtee of the rule, "Whoever he may be, if he goes beyond the prescribed speed limit he is going to jail!"

Judge McAtee expressed the opinion that the people as a whole are not observing regulations, as they must if the "automobile is to continue in our midst." He spoke of the rapid increase in the number of motor-propelled machines, saying if the increase continued at the present rate soon it would be impossible to move about on streets of cities.

Court experiences were cited where drivers who have been factors in accidents have been subject to physical defects. Such conditions, the judge said, had inspired a movement to present at the next session of the legislature a bill requiring examination of persons to determine their fitness before being permitted to drive automobiles.

TOPPLING KINGDOMS HOLD NO FEAR FOR PRINCE OF GYPSIES

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30.—It may be a bad year for kings, but it has been a good one for "Prince Charley" (Carlos) Hajas, self-styled heir to the throne of all the Gypsies. Prince Charley and all of his clan now are encamped in a flatwoods stretch twenty miles or more north of here, where they will spend the next few weeks swapping automobiles and gypsy "accessories" to native and visiting Floridians.

Prince Charley claims he is of royal blood, tracing his ancestry back through several centuries of Spanish blood to the time when there was a traditional Gypsy kingdom in the fatherland of Romy in 1412—which was in the Hungary of that day, according to Prince Charley. While the kingship of the gypsies now is in dispute, Prince Charley declares that his father is on the throne in Cuba, and that practically all of the gypsies in the United States, and most of those scattered throughout Spain, Russia, the Czech-Slav countries and Turkey, annually contribute to his upkeep. Two per cent of all the gains of all gypsies for one year go to the support of his father, declares Prince Charley, and this amounts to a sum approximately $100,000 many seasons.

There was considerably more romance connected with swapping horses than there is in swapping automobiles, he declared. "But more things can be wrong with a car than with a horse," he added.

It is rare, according to Prince Charley, that a gypsy will resort to the courts of the country in which he may be to settle differences between him and some other gypsy. Oftentimes he may become involved in disputes with natives of a country, and when this is the case the Gypsy prefers to take the best settlement possible out of court, claiming that juries are prejudiced against gypsies. He declared that few gypsies ever appear in courts and that when they do it is because of some imagined rather than real wrong. "We often are charged with stealing small things in the locality where we camp, but I believe most of our tribesmen are honest in that respect. When it comes to trading, however, may the sharpest trader win now as ever. The heads of nations trade even their people, so that's the harm!"

The gypsy's theory is that a trade means a matching of wits and that the number-witted of the swapping pair is entitled to any advantage he can gain. Horse trading is other than gypsies have for years characterized various means of "doctoring" horses as "gypsy tricks." Putting a pea or a grain of corn in the ear of a balky horse is one of them.

"Ever the wide world over, lass
Ever the trail held true;
Over the world and under the world,
And back at the end to you."

Gypsies in all countries, according to Prince Charley, still cling to the old romantic methods of wooing and marriage. There is no such thing as "love at first sight" culminating in a rapid wedding. Young gypsies may fall in love at first sight, but the young man has to prove many things to his future bride's father, or mother, or guardian if her parents be dead. First, he must show himself worthy of her from a physical standpoint, and he must demonstrate that he can keep her in gypsy luxury—which now means a car and tents and blankets, and a summer in the north and a winter in the south. Besides, he must woo her for a year, with all his trades reviewed by her father. After that it takes $50 in actual gold, some blankets, or their equivalent in spare tires, to turn the trick, while all of the sparking must be done under the eye of the maiden's relatives.

There are no "triangle" affairs among the gypsies, Prince Charley asserts. He declared a gypsy keeps his marriage vows more faithfully than all others and said that gypsy lore for the last eight centuries, or since the forefathers migrated from India, showed but few instances sufficient for application of the unwritten law. At such time, he declared, the one proved guilty is dealt with summarily, the mode of capital punishment being decapitation with a knife and burial of the body in a lonely and unmarked grave by tribesmen who understand how to guard well such secrets.

BRIES PLUMBING SHOP IS MOVED

The Andrew Bries plumbing shop, which has been located on north Fifth for several years, has been moved Saturday to the room formerly occupied by the Fulton restaurant and fish market, 142 Hickory-st.

The additional space afforded by the new location will permit of a better display of his line and more efficient handling of trade, Mr. Bries believes.

the ideals on which our national life has been built.

YEAR BEGAN WITH A CRISIS

Let us visualize the situation in world politics as it was at the beginning of the year. Attention of humanity was then centered on the arms congress in Washington. That conference had come to a crisis. The imperial powers had maneuvered to get what they wanted and to deny concessions to Democracy.

Britain, the greatest exponent of the imperial idea, had won (1) freedom from the burdensome alliance with Japan which her dominions would no longer tolerate, (2) ten years' peace in the Pacific while she dealt with her troubles elsewhere; and (3) assurance of equality with the American fleet and of strength equal to that of any three European powers. Japan had won assurance against aggressive American action for ten years. France had gained assent to her great army with which she dominated the continent of Europe and was able to force terms from Britain.

We had made sacrifices of our power and our chances to share in ruling and exploiting the weak and distressed peoples of the world; but had gained little. Our delegation had set out to free China from the annexations and "spheres of influence" whereby the empires dominated her—Japan holding Shantung and Southern Manchuria and claiming Mongolia; Britain claiming overlordship of Central China; and France asserting monopolistic rights in the south. All our attempts to bind the empires to an agreement to break these shackles had come to naught. Similarly we had failed to get from Japan a pledge to quit Siberia and give up her design to carve out a great empire there.

JOINED IN PLAN TO BALK US

The empires intended we should get no concrete results. Toward the end of 1921 they joined in an elaborate scheme to balk us. Lloyd George summoned the Genoa conference on the plea that the world's attention must be turned on Europe. Arthur J. Balfour (now Lord Balfour) gave notice he must hasten homeward by the middle of January. Minister Sarraut of France took steamship accommodations for the chief members of his delegation. Prince Tokugawa of Japan had gone and Admiral Kato (now Premier) was preparing to follow.

This was the situation in which America opened with its big guns in an out-and-out fight for Democracy. I say America because Secretary Hughes has been at pains to declare our delegation at the Arms congress was not partisan. Republicans and Democrats were on it, they were agreed that partisanship ended at the three-mile limit and they were basing their attitude on traditions that had ruled every administration since the Monroe Doctrine first challenged imperial aggression.

At the beginning of 1922 Mr. Balfour went to Mr. Hughes to say farewell and to ask for an understanding of the attitude the Washington government would take to wards the Genoa conference. He was received with high explosive. Mr. Hughes firmly informed him to this effect:

America was bent on removing the causes of war. Vital Far Eastern questions were bound to lead to war unless equitably arranged. Settlement of these questions would be taken as a test of the sincerity of the professions of the other powers that they were seeking to end war. Shantung, spheres of influence and monopolies in China, and Japanese occupation of Siberia had not even approached solution. Until these matters were settled, and settled right, the United States could not enter other conference to settle other problems.

CHANGED COURSE OF HISTORY
That was one of the most portentous conversations ever held. It changed the course of history. Mr. Balfour gave up his plan for departure and placed himself at the pleasure of the American delegation. The others did likewise. They remained until treaties had been signed which recognized American principles. To China was pledged sovereignty over all her territory and the right to work out her problems her own way, with the open door firmly established for all nations and the monopolies the empires had enjoyed thrown into a pool in which the United States would have a right of at least equal direction. To Siberia was pledged evacuation by the Japanese.

The end of the year sees Shantung returned to China and that country lumbering and straining to fit its bulk and millions into modern conditions, with the practical certainty that it will be permitted to find its own solution. Siberia has been evacuated and the Russians are to be permitted to work out their salvation in this land.

These achievements were but stepping stones to others of the same sort. Europe clamored for us to take a hand in its quarrels and intrigues, and when we refused accused us loudly of selfish aloofness and isolation; of failure to do our duty in the world. But we were busy elsewhere.

FAST SCHEME OF EMPIRE

In the Near East Britain was engaged upon a scheme of imperial aggrandizement which put to shame the ambitions of Alexander and Caesar. Under the guise of mandates she had taken over Palestine and Mesopotamia. Her troops were in Persia and she was swallowing that country. She was ruling the Turkish Straits, with the Sultan as her prisoner and tool, and her fleet dominated the whole of the Black Sea. In Russia she was scheming to get a monopoly on the oil of the Caucasus, the coal mines of the Donetz basin and the chief mineral and navigation rights. She was scheming, in fact, to dominate all Western Asia and Eastern Europe. The Mediterranean, the Black and Red Seas and the Indian Ocean were to be British lakes.

Here was a project which must be checked before it had reached the stage of full accomplishment. Having won the "open door" and freedom for self-development for peoples of the Far East we demanded the same for the peoples in the Near East. We put ourselves on record last summer as protector of Persia's rights. We insisted that mandates did not give the British sovereignty in Mesopotamia and Palestine and that all nations had equal rights in the mandated lands. It was not an easy battle. The London foreign office used all of its arts to dodge and confuse the issue. But we again made it a test of good faith and again let it be known we would do nothing to help settle the European mess until the European nations stopped consciousness aggressions on other people.

The end of the year finds Britain admitting, even professing to back our policies in all the lands under dispute. And that applies not only to the "open door" to be Near Eastern lands; but to "freedom of the seas" as applied to the Turkish straits and the Black Sea. Neither that body of water nor the Mediterranean is a "British lake" any longer. American warships cruise both of them and see that they remain free.

NOW, AT LAST, IN EUROPE

And now, at the end of the year, we are taking a hand in Europe. It is not a matter of quitting our "isolation" or "aloofness." Our action is merely another step in the logical development of the policies that had been pursued in the Far and Near East. France had been trying to dominate the continent of Europe as Japan had been trying to dominate China and Siberia and Britain to dominate Turkey, Persia and Russia. The Paris government had its armies ready to march into Germany, seize industries and other sources of wealth and make that country and Central Europe practical dependencies.

The march into the Ruhr was to have been the first step in the grandiose imperial scheme. We have put our foot down on it. Regardless of what Germany did under her junker masters, we have taken the position that the German

Far and Near East. We have made

I am not undertaking, however,

DISINTEGRATING BRITISH

EMPIRE

Canada, Australia, South Africa and India backed up America in breaking the grip of the empires in the East. They helped with us in making Ireland a Free State.

groundwork for a further advance

Canada in recent months has insisted on having her own minister at Washington, and London has admitted her right, altho still trying to stave off the "evil day" by some upheavals.

But to one who sees signs clearly something very hopeful is going on. The middle classes, the backbone of the continent are beginning to take hold of things.

From the dictation of the aristocrats who brot on the war the peoples swung, after that conflict, to the dictation of the classes at the other extreme. Now we are seeing another reaction.

Britain has defeated the Radicals who for two years kept her in fear of revolution and has put the Conservatives in power. France has completely wrecked the Socialist parties. The Conservative

Cuno has taken the Chancellorship of Germany from the fast fading

Socialist and Communist combination. Lenin has firmly established his new revolution in Moscow,

cooling tens of thousands of reds

out of office and industry and re-even come to the collapse which statesmen are predicting and carrying nations with her into a time of great stress. Undoubtedly there will be much more suffering and some upheavals.

But to one who sees signs clearly something very hopeful is going on. The middle classes, the backbone of the continent are beginning to take hold of things.

tion. Lenin has firmly established his new revolution in Moscow,

cooling tens of thousands of reds

out of office and industry and replacing them with men of the capitalistic and aristocratic classes.

These things are the work of aroused middle class which have grown weary of the excesses of both extremes. In fact, the reaction has taken stronger form and

Mussolini has been made dictator in Bavaria and other parts of Central Europe. Other Fascist movements are under way. Communist elements are being placed in control and they mean to stay. It was to restore order and not to the continent. It will be a long time before such a result will be completed, but a determined reaction has been made; and progress is certain.

There will be attempts to restore the old monarchic conditions, but the peoples are bent on democracies and they will probably get democracies. Even Turkey has thrown off the yoke of the Mohamedan hierarchy and broken the power of its sultan.

DOWNFALL OF LLOYD GEORGE

Probably the most spectacular of the events of the year was the overwhelming defeat of Lloyd

George. He was the final survivor of those men to whom the war had given immense personal power and even more immense ambitions.

Starting as a champion of the man at the bottom of the social stratum

he had turned out as the aspirant to the greatest dictatorship in history of man. Ruling by a coalition of parties he played one against another and got his way. He carried his way into one international conference after another until he came to treat nations and peoples as his playthings, moving them to serve the ends of his personal ambitious.

Professing to hate war he was continually stirring up dangerous strife. He led the Poles against the Russians, and the Greeks against the Turks. He urged on Germany to defy France and almost broke the Entente. His downfall came, it is now revealed, because without the knowledge of the French foreign minister, and the cannot be assumed to order the French to seek an alliance with

Germany. On the refusal of Central Europe to compromise which has been shown, such embarks agitation which might have involved all Europe. This dictatorial assumption was the final cause of the Conservative revolt.

His removal—his almost complete obliteration—enables statesmen to take hold of problems in sane fashion. Great issues are being fought out in conference but there is no longer the irritant of a domineering personal ambition to hamper attempts to settle rival interests.

SOME DANGER SPOTS

Turkey, however, still lies about in Central Europe and the Near East and there are some danger spots. Turks would like to advance further to the westward in Greece and are trying to stir up rebellions against the British in Mesopotamia, Palestine and Egypt.

Puigara insists on a port on the Aegean at the expense of Greece.

Jugoslavia casts longing eyes on Salonica. Mussolini wants to take

Miracles For Farmers

THE farm credit problem is not to be settled with precipitate haste, after all. Action will be delayed at least until next week and probably longer. It was Mr. Brookhart's bright idea (or perhaps Mr. Couzens's, transmitted by way of Mr. Brookhart) to press for action in relief to farmers and thereby postpone action on relief to ship owners under the badly battered ship subsidy bill. Helping the farmer is still congress's chief obsession, but it has discovered difficulties which make haste impossible.

Chief of these is the suspicion and resentment of the more radical members of the farmer bloc toward the country's existing financial system. The middle west has been told repeatedly that Wall Street is the cause of all their woes, and that the Federal Reserve System is inextricably bound up with the "money power." Neither of these statements is more than 10 per cent. true, but they have sufficient weight in Washington to create a demand for completely new facilities to administer farm credits. On this question and on the character and scope of the relief to be offered, the representatives of agriculture are sufficiently divided to make speedy action impossible.

It is just as well that this is so. Nothing that congress can do will relieve the present distress of the farmers; all that the government can do in the immediate emergency has already been done, and the new measures will for the most part become effective only after normal conditions have been restored. The farmer is suffering because of a violent deflation of food prices, which he must balance against high wages, freight rates, and prices on the things he buys. This deflation is in part the result of a currency movement not yet completely liquidated, and in part it is because of the economic prostration of a large part of Europe.

The government could aid the farmer by taking steps to help Europe's return to normal conditions and by repealing the Fordney-McCumber law. The latter action is certainly not contemplated, and it remains to be seen whether or not there is any reality in our present talk of undertaking the former. In the mean time there is no reason, except the exigencies of politicians, for hasty action in passing a bill which is sure to disappoint those who are waiting hopefully for a miracle.

Borah The Statesman.

ON several occasions we have voiced the opinion that take it all in all Senator William E. Borah is easily the most useful man in public life today. In support of this opinion it is gratifying to quote The New York World, leading Democratic newspaper in the country, in which sincere acknowledgement is made from this partisan source to the great qualities of the Idaho senator.

Senator Borah took positions in the first years following the war with which we did not agree, but in it all was the feeling that he was a courageous, straight-forward man with no personal axes to grind and moved solely by a conscientious desire to serve his country well and faithfully. For this reason it is a pleasure to reprint a recent editorial utterance from The World. It is a tribute from a staunch partisan newspaper to a public leader of opposite politics and for this reason doubly significant:

"Senator Hiram Johnson solemnly announces that the difference between himself and Senator Borah over the question of an economic conference 'is the difference between the policy of Woodrow Wilson and that endorsed and approved by the American people in 1920.'"

"But what was the policy 'endorsed and approved by the American people in 1920?' Was it the policy of the Battalion of Death in the Senate? Or was it the policy to which Secretary Hughes, Secretary Hoover, Chief Justice Taft and twenty-eight other eminent and distinguished Republicans morally committed their party without protest from Mr. Harding?"

"The real difference between Senator Johnson and Senator Borah over this question is the difference between a professional demagogue and a serious-minded statesman. Johnson is interested only in justifying himself and maintaining his record. Borah is concerned with an economic situation following the war which grows more and more serious."

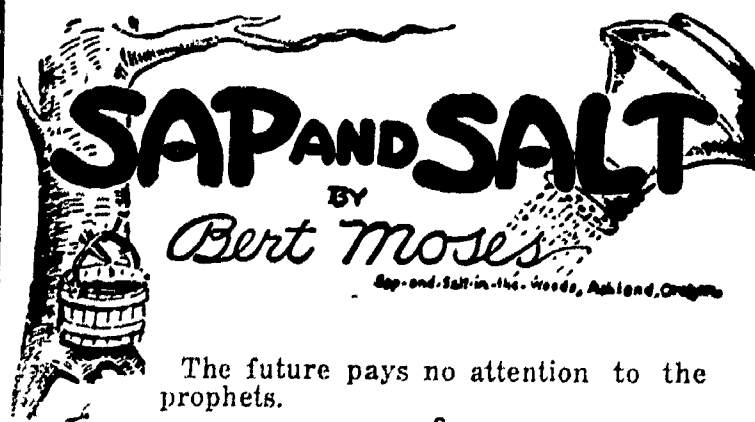

"To Johnson nothing is important except to be consistent. To Borah nothing is important except to find the right solution for the greatest problem bequeathed by the war. This problem exists. It is the outstanding fact in all international relations and, as Borah says, 'the only legitimate question for debate is how you can deal with it most effectively.' To Johnson the only legitimate question for debate is Woodrow Wilson, and if civilization can be saved only by following policies that Woodrow Wilson once advocated, then it is better that civilization should perish."

"Not the least of Senator Borah's admirable qualities is his moral courage. He is not afraid to change his mind. He is not afraid of the truth. He is willing to face the world as it is. That is why he has many of the elements of a great man, while the Lodges and the Johnsons have all of the elements of little men. Borah fought Wilson in 1920 because he honestly thought Wilson was wrong. His motive was not partisan politics. He had not yet felt the full impact of the war and he sincerely believed that it was not only possible but altogether desirable for the United States to return to a policy of isolation in respect to European affairs. From his point of view, the excuse for American intervention ended with the armistice."

"The Senator from Idaho knows better now. He has learned from experience that the round robin and the Lodge reservations cannot be the last word in American foreign policy, and that co-operation with the European nations in some form or another has become imperative. Knowing the truth, he does not hesitate to proclaim it and remains indifferent to all accusations of inconsistency."

"Furthermore, all of Borah's present and former associates in the Senate know deep down in their hearts that he is right about it. That includes President Harding, who was one of the rubber-stamp Senators used by Lodge to back the Committee on Foreign Relations in order to defeat the Treaty of Versailles and the covenant of the League of Nations. What they lack is Borah's courage and vital honesty."

"The Administration is hostile to the Borah resolution on an economic conference, but the Administration was hostile to Borah's resolution for a conference to limit the amount of it. It had to be clubbed into the most important question of the life and it will have to be clubbed again to the economic sickness of all the world. Clubbing Administration is one of the most useful Senator Borah or anybody else can do. For the days of James Buchanan have there been ministrations so blind to the obvious."

New York Day-by-Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

ABE MARTIN

"It's gittin' so a paved road is twice as dangerous as a railroad. We've heard of folks goin' after somethin' 'hammer an' tongs,' but a hammer an' saw is somethin' new."

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—It is a discriminating buying public that has suddenly come to the fore in Manhattan. "Bargain-wise" the shopkeepers call them. They buy but their attitude is of a "show me" variety. They follow the Silk Shirt Era and are extremely skittish.

At the smartest haberdashery on the avenue the prices have suddenly dropped. The $5 scarf is now $3.50. The patronage consisted mainly of those with large means. They came in to look but went away saying they'd wait until prices were lowered.

This indicates that the revolt against high prices is not confined to the so-called middle classes. A man's hat shop where prices ranged from $10 to $14 has scaled the price to $7.50 for their best models. "We found that many customers were wearing last year's hats," the proprietor said.

Perhaps the most conclusive evidence of carelessness in buying is to be found in Wall Street where scores of brokerage houses have closed. The majority of these concerns depended on the sale of doubtful securities for revenue.

Theatrical productions that would have made money three years ago linger for only a few days and "flop." Movies must be unusually good to attract. The standardized picture meets a chilly reception.

After all it is apparent that despite trick intelligence tests the masses know what they are doing. Following the grand splurge they have come up for air—with cool heads and clear brains.

They have struck out calmly for their money's worth and are doing it without the fanfare of overall parades and buyers strikes. In a large department store recently prices were slightly reduced in every department. The business was 40 per cent larger in volume than it has been for two years.

On the same floor of my hotel there resides a French actress who has come to conquer new worlds. If she presses a button the palm-itching myrmidons fly to her. She has not as yet mastered our currency and she gives only penny tips. I don't profess to understand the phenomenon but it is my guess that the servants expect a favorable reaction—and a shower of gold and greenbacks—when the actress discovers her terrible faux pas.

Still the cause may be deeper. After writing the above I passed down the hall to post a letter. Outside the French actress's room I saw two empty green bottles labeled "Absinthe." The only drink of absinthe I ever took resulted in my giving a gold watch to a perfect stranger as a slight token of my esteem. A penny and a drink of absinthe would send any bell boy downtown to take a laugh at the mint.

Also I believe that is purely a personal matter that the author of these daily trivialities is sipping up his French.

Maybe I can fill up the column this way. My wife is proficient in French. She rattles it off in a way that amazes me. In cafes she is able to talk to the waiter captains about the menus which are Greek to me. But there is one captain who irritates me. After taking her order he always says something that sounds to me as if he were saying "What will the boob gulp?"—and then she gives him my order.

When I was in Paris—(Voice: O, for Heaven's sake are you going to begin that again)—I mastered one French word. It was "Encore." Until I went there I thought it meant "applause." It really means "A little more of the same."

DIME NOVELS

I've told since day was breaking, I'm tired and broken-kneed and all my heart is aching for something good to read. A good old fashioned story that has a decent kick, wherein the heroes gory make all the villains sick. I want no weary pages dissecting human souls, no works by bogus sages, no plotless rignaroles. I drop my thread and needle, I dump my checkerboard, and think of good old Beadle, whose books I once adored. The heroes hunted red men along the forest aisles, and left a gross of dead men all corded up in piles. The red men caught the heroes, and bound them to the stake, and, like so many Neros, decreed that they should bake. These tales were not demanding a strain to comprehend; a ten-cent understanding could grasp them to the end! Though full of scrap and quarrel, and corpses on the ice, they all were strictly moral, and virtue conquered vice. And there was always action that kept a man awake, and gave him satisfaction, and soothed his inward ache. And there were love and spooning, and moonshine in the air, and lovely damsels swooning, and paltry hero, and there. New authors come and wheedle, and say their works are great, but how I yearn for Beadle, whose books are out of date!

HOTEL MEN FED RAREST VIANDS AT LONDON CLUB

LONDON, Dec. 30.—French cooks, 125 in number, provided a feast of Lucullus for 300 guests, members of the Hotel and Restaurant Proprietors' Club.
Baby lamb from Pauliac, ducks from Rouen. Russian and terrapin soups figured in the menu of this banquet, which, in full, was:
La Tasse de Terrapine
Le Witcheim
La timbale de Sole Carmen
La scille de Pauliac Saladaise
Les Petits Pois aux Laitues
L'Aiguillette de Rouennaise
Brillat Savarin
La Salade gastronomique
Le Cardon au Parmesan
Doyenne Comice Ginetie
Les Mignardises
La Corbeille de Fruits
"The Rouen duck," according to M. Latry, chief cook of the feast, "was braised in a special copper. It was stuffed with the bird's liver and mushrooms. The slices when carved looked like fine quills or feathers. It took two months to get the turtles for the terrapin soup."

Unpronounceable Name Wins $1,000 Lawsuit

AKRON, O., Dec. 30.—Despite his name, or perhaps because of it, a jury in Judge S. D. Kenfield's Common Pleas Court here gave Stetson Wokosavljevits a verdict for $1,000 in his suit against the city for damages done his property when the street grade was changed. Other petitioners received different amounts, the whole totalling $5,000. The jury referred to the one plaintiff as "Woky" as a time saver.

When the work of electrifying a French railway is completed it will be the first one outside of the United States to employ 150,000 volts for its main transmission.

LONDON LABOR PAPER AGAIN IN TROUBLE

Daily Herald Makes Appeal To Working Classes To Give It Support

STAFF REORGANIZED

'Capitalistic Press' Assailed As Tool Of Wealthy Against Laboring Men

LONDON, Dec. 30—Though the Labor Party has won a great political victory and has greater achievements in prospect, it is finding the greatest difficulty in keeping its organ, 'The Daily Herald,' out of trouble.

The Daily Herald is Labor's only paper in England, and its vicissitudes have been many. Recently, under a reorganization plan, the labor unions agreed to take over the financing of the paper. Hamilton Fyfe, who had won fame on the Northcliffe papers, took over the editorship.

For a time things went well with the Labor paper, but now it is again in difficulties, and newspaper publishers are wondering whether it will ever be possible to publish a successful Labor paper in England.

MAKES APPEAL

Fyfe is making a desperate appeal to the laboring people to support "their paper," and in doing so is bitterly attacking the "millionaire ownership of the other London papers."

"Norman Angell is the man who predicted several years before the war came that it was foolish enough to let it come it would do as much harm to the victors as to the vanquished," Fyfe said, in appealing for aid for his paper. "Events have proved that he was right. If only we had taken his word for it!"

"Recently Norman Angell wrote a little book to show how necessary it is for the Labor movement to have newspapers of its own. Without them, he says, it can never hope to be successful."

"At present Labor has one newspaper, The Daily Herald. This belongs to the Labor Movement. It is run for no millionaire's benefit as other newspapers are. It is run for the benefit of the workers. Yet the workers are not buying it in sufficient numbers to make it self-supporting."

WANTS SUBSCRIBERS

"It must have a circulation of half a million or it will cease publication. What would that mean?" "It would mean that Labor would have no daily voice in the press."

"It would mean the manufacture of opinion hostile to labor by the millionaire press."

"Do you know who is chief proprietor of The Daily Mail? Lord Rothmere, with his ten millions. The Times? Mr. Jacob Astor, with his twenty millions. The Daily Express? Lord Beaverbrook, millionaire. The Daily News? The Cadburys—a family of millionaires. The Daily Chronicle? A group of millionaires. The Daily Sketch? Sir Edward Hulton, millionaire."

POOR PEOPLE'S PRESS
"Those are London newspapers. The newspapers all over the country are much the same. All are owned by rich people who are anxious to protect rich peoples' interests."

"The only newspaper which is anxious to protect poor people's interests is The Daily Herald."

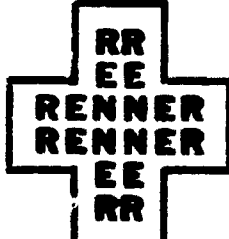

"Now, what are you going to do about it? Are you taking it? If not, order it at once. If you are a reader, are you recommending it to your friends and workmates? Unless The Daily Herald can double its circulation and become self-supporting it will cease publication."

"Then the rich men will have it all their own way." "Don't let it be said of Norman Angell that twice he prophesied wisely and twice he was unheeded!"

Ireland, which teems with young fellows well over six feet high and so powerful that they do not know their own strength.

Unfortunately, these men are without any real boxing experience, but promoters say that, if trained, they would be world beaters.

Sir James Craig, Premier of Northern Ireland, in a recent speech said: "I am astonished at the physique of the young men of Ulster. I cannot conceive any part of the kingdom where one would find men of such extraordinary height, breadth and thickness."

"These Irish Samsons," it is said, invariably have hard heads and powerful jaws. One man, with a head like a battering ram, is able to butt a wall and receive the terrific impact with the utmost unconcern. He will perform this feat—which would make the ordinary man shudder—half a dozen times without stopping.

In Tyrone there is a young man who can pick up in his teeth a table, with a 200-pound man standing on it, and then carry the table round the room as though he had merely a slice of bread in his mouth.

are about half way between them. "During the past year United States business has steadily advanced until the average for the whole country is what we usually call 'normal' business. Having advanced thus far, shall we immediately continue into a great period or shall we go into another period of depression and poor business as some predict?"

"If you will only remember the five years preceding 1921 and recall what an enormous orgy of expansion existed, you can see for yourself that it will take some time to get a proper foundation for really good business. We danced during those years, and now we must 'pay the fiddler' his complete bill. Business has already been like a convalescing patient. Everything will go well with the patient if he does not try to get out of bed too soon. If he tries to overdo he will have a relapse. We now have passed the most painful part of the readjustment. The crisis is over, but a process of cost reduction and re-balancing is necessary."

Price Spread is Wide.

"Today a wide disparity exists between prices of different commodities, and particularly the spread between producers' and consumers' goods. This is a brake on trade. One half of the people cannot earn enough to buy the goods that the other half has to sell. There are one hundred and six million people in the United States and fifty per cent of them get their living from producing or distributing raw materials. It has thus far been impossible to reduce the prices of finished consumers' goods to meet the cuts on these raw materials. The purchasing power of these people is out of its natural proportion."

"It is not entirely a matter of reducing wages, although labor costs are a large factor, nor is it entirely a matter of inefficient management. No, the problem of high costs is not a problem of any one element; and readjustment can come in only one way—drastic competition. All this will take further time."

"Does this mean that there will be no opportunities in 1923? Not at all! There will be just as many chances to make money as in any year you ever lived. It will be possible for you to make as much during the next twelve months as in any year of your business life, but it will not be along the lines which made money in 1919 and 1920, nor in any other boom year. The profits in 1923 will come by giving attention to details, by stopping the little leaks, by saving here and there thru new labor-saving inventions, and most of all, by devising new and more economical means of distributing goods. This was not at all the situation during the business boom. Then the man who stopped to prevent small leaks found himself caught by the momentous rises in prices and changes in general conditions."

"Those days have passed. They were wild and merry while they lasted. Now business has come back to earth. In most industries, an excessive producing capacity was created. During the boom, overhead costs were increased to keep up with an abnormal turnover. Today the amount of business has dropped back more nearly to normal, but costs have not been proportionately reduced. Higher wages, higher rents, more expensive sales organization—in fact, nearly every item of expense is out of proportion with the amount of business done."

"Instead of wild gyrations in the commodity markets, the average trend thruout the coming year should be more of a sidewise movement. Some commodities are high and others are very low, but the majority at present are about 15 per cent above their levels a year ago. A year from now we shall probably find them averaging at about the same level they stand today. In between, there may be a further rally from the low of 1922, and agricultural products certainly should do better."

Earnings Will Be Higher.

"Earnings," continued Mr. Babson, "should average somewhat better than in the year just passed. A survey of 100 leading industrial companies, recently made by the Organization, showed that in 1919, 86 per cent of these companies made a net profit, while only 4 per cent showed a deficit. In 1921, the number of firms which could show a profit was cut down to 48 per cent. Over half, or 52 per cent of these industrial concerns lost money on their year's business. 1922 has witnessed a change from red ink figures into black ink figures, but the amount of net profits will not be large when the books are finally balanced. We are just getting back onto the right side of the ledger."

"The shortage of labor is one of the worst features of the 1923 outlook. The moment that business works up to average activity it becomes impossible to get sufficient workers. This raises costs and in turn increases commodity prices and the cost of living. The immigration law is largely the cause of this shortage. This law restricts the number of immigrants in a single year to 3 per cent of the total number of respective nationalities already in the United States. Before the war we had an addition of a million immigrants a year. Now we are receiving less than 300,000 and at least 60 per cent of these are women, children or other dependents. On the other hand, I doubt if the repeal of this 3 per cent immigration law is the proper solution of the present labor shortage."

"The real solution is not the repeal of the present immigration law but rather the repeal of the Contract Labor Law for as long a period as the 3 per cent law remains in force. This would make it possible for employers to promise selected foreign workers employment before leaving their own homes. The moment that the immigration law is repealed the Contract Labor Law can again be applied."

"There should be no great difficulty in getting ample supplies of bituminous coal this winter. The coal shortage is diminishing somewhat. Ample supplies of bituminous coal are being produced, suggesting lower prices. The mischief of this situation lies in the fact that it will again be to the advantage of both miners and operators to close the mines for a time. The difficulties which brot on the strike last year have not been settled. There is serious danger of another strike in the soft coal fields."

"Everybody is worrying about the political situation. There is talk of a radical legislation during the coming year. Most of this is merely the echo from campaign speeches. It may be a noisy year. Both the Conservatives and the Radicals have a veto power, but neither is strong enough to push thru any extreme measures of its own. The only kind of legislation that will really be enacted is that which will appeal to members of both groups. Already the Federal Reserve Board has issued a ruling admitting a large amount of agricultural paper for rediscount in the Federal Reserve Banks. The Muscle Shoals problem will probably be settled, either by sale to the Henry Ford or by development on the part of the government itself. The Soldier's Bonus will probably be enacted, altho no agreement as to the terms or means of raising the money has yet been made. It is improbable that there will be any increase in the amount of business taxes.

"The political aspect has frightened many stockholders, but it is entirely too early to be worried. The thing to watch is fundamental conditions. We are still in a readjustment period. This means that sooner or later we shall work toward better prosperity. It is true that industrial stocks are much higher than a year ago and are certainly not the bargains that they were. However, as I have already stated, certain lines of industry are just getting ready to go forward. The industrial market will be 'spotty' but there are a great many issues that should do better in the coming year."

"The rail group is, relatively, not so far advanced as the industrials. I do not believe rails should be bought indiscriminately, but the rail average will follow up the general market. I am much more attracted to the long-haul roads than to the shorter lines. The motor truck is a feeder for the former but a competitor of the latter. Copper stocks have really not started yet, but the statistical position of the metal is far better than it has been for a long time. Coppers, certainly, are selling at bargain levels."

"Money conditions should continue good. There is no question that the banks are in a strong position. The Federal Reserve Banks today have reserves equal to about 75% of their note and deposit liabilities. The reserve required is between 35% and 40%. It is true, that when foreign countries begin to get on their feet, it will be necessary to send much of this gold back. For the present, however, this gold represents the basis on which a considerable expansion of credit can be built. It guarantees to us a relatively easy money rate, until heavy gold exports are resumed. During the coming year, borrowers need have little fear of a lack of funds for all legitimate purposes, and this also applies to long-term money, that is, capital for permanent investment. Mortgage rates during 1923 should work lower. Today, the average rate of real estate mortgages thruout the United States is between 6% and 7%. The time is not far away when this average will stand between 5% and 6%."

"Of course, the ease of the money market is distinctly favorable to long-time bonds. There is a point in the business cycle when industry becomes so active that money is absorbed by trade. When this occurs bonds are sold and develop a downward tendency. This point in the cycle has not yet appeared. Moreover, history shows that following the Civil War bond prices, barring temporary fluctuations, rose for a long period of years, the advance culminating about 1900. From this point, a decent was gradually made to a low point at the end of the European War. Since this low point, history is repeating itself, bonds having reached a middle ground, but still far below the 3.80 or 4% basis of the 1900 period. All these factors suggest that well selected bonds, both municipal and corporation, are a distinct purchase."

"Bonds and money," concluded Mr. Babson, "are certainly sound factors in the situation. As for business as a whole, there is no doubt that it will average better this coming year than it did in 1922. This does not mean that there will be any boom, but that there will be plenty of money-making opportunities for those who know fundamental conditions."

General business according to the index of the Babsonchart stands at only 2% below normal, the same as a week ago.

More than fifty overt acts are charged against the defendants in the indictments. Among other things it is charged that at Washington on Armistice Day November 11, 1918, and thereafter up to July 1, 1919, the defendants recommended contract laws for and procured the United States to be obligated for extensive new war and military construction the exact amount of which is unknown to the grand jury, but which they charge was in excess of $50,000,000.

Of this amount in excess of $1,000,000 was to be contractors selected by the said conspirators and given certain work under the cost plus form of contracts.

Other than to state that he was convicted the evidence against the wartime officials was most conclusive, Attorney General Daugherty declined to comment on the grand jury action.

"For more than a year and a half," he said, "the department of justice has diligently incurred in every phase of condemnation construction, and special care was taken to verify in detail the amount of which is unknown to the grand jury, but which they charge was in excess of $50,000,000. Of this amount in excess of $1,000,000 was to be contractors selected by the said conspirators and given certain work under the cost plus form of contracts. Other than to state that he was convicted the evidence against the wartime officials was most conclusive, Attorney General Daugherty declined to comment on the grand jury action."

on June 1, 1917, to adopt for use generally wide open cost-plus percentage fee form of contract from which were to be omitted well organized safeguards in the interests of the United States."

The indictment charges that through the year 1917 and 1918 "the conspirators procured the appointment into the personnel of the condemnation and construction division, numerous persons including some of the defendants who were interested in and associated with contractors, engineers and concerns interested in the construction industry to aid in controlling the program of the conspirators and their friends, contrary to the interests of the United States."

It was also charged that during the years 1917 and 1918 the conspirators selected contractors for certain work and at the same time specified sub contractors to be employed on substantial portions of the work, pyramiding the fees and expenses for the work.

Through 1917-18, it is charged, the defendants in order to retain control of the selection of contractors for the larger jobs procured the awarding of numerous small contracts and sub-contracts on order, to local contractors in order that the choice projects might be reserved for the favored contractors.

During these same years, the defendants procured for all of their number who so desired, commissions as officers in the United States army and procured for many of them promotions. These officers so maladministered the laws and regulations of the U. S. as to cur favor with persons and concerns with whom they were dealing as contractors doing work for the United States, it was stated. Some of the conspirators are alleged to have attempted to procure the limitation of the government's auditing force and to have permitted their favorite contractors to pad their overhead expense and payroll.

officials describe as "a scandal." Large stocks of surplus copper have been parcelled out in various sales to a comparatively small number of junk dealers.

Copper thus offered has been sold up quickly, but at far below a fair market price, according to investigators.

Junk dealers in many instances, it is alleged, have conspired so as to remove the element of competition in the auctions and leave to a single dealer, at a given sale, the option of buying in materials at his own price. The price so paid allowed the junk dealer to sell to manufacturers or refiners at an enormous profit. Junk dealers by so manipulating the bidding at sales, deprived the government of many millions of dollars. It is even alleged that the dealers in some cases, by reason of the alleged conspiracies, were able to negotiate contracts for the sale of materials in advance of the auction day, so certain were they of obtaining the materials at their own figure.

To what extent dealers of various kinds may have similarly arranged non-competing auction buying in the purchasing of other classes of war material, including shipping board supplies, is to be thoroughly investigated, it was learned today.

The information upon which the government is now proceeding is said to have been obtained by federal district attorneys in different localities.

MY MARRIAGE PROBLEMS

How Madge Valiantly Faced Mrs. Barker.

WHEN I rushed back to the Barker house after the receipt of the telegram from Lillian I was swift-marching in my mind the things I should have to do in order to elude Dr. Pettit, who—half-insane with anger and undying affection for Claire Foster—was drawing nearer to us with every step of his swift motor.

I must telephone to Dicky. I must get a motor car to take us to some place upon which Dicky and I should rely. I must waken Claire Foster. We were ready to leave in record-breaking time, and I must plan our road home that there should be no danger of Dr. Pettit's finding our route. Last, but by no means least, I must enlist Mrs. Barker's aid in placating the irate physician, or at least throwing him off the track when he should arrive.

By the time I had reached the door I realized that I must tackle Mrs. Barker first. She could give me the information I sorely needed concerning telephone, motor cars and routes. She was somewhere to be seen, although I saw she was busy somewhere about the house, because the old man who had brought me the telegram had said he had sent him to me. I made my way down the hall to the empty dining-room, and crossed it to the kitchen door, where I knocked deprecatingly.

"Oh, it's you!"

"Come in," Mrs. Barker's voice, while pleasant enough, was crisp, and I sensed that she did not relish interruptions to her work. I pushed open the door, and found myself in a big, immaculately clean kitchen, with flower-patterned plants at the windows, and brilliant red-colored rag rugs softening the severe linoleum floor covering. Mrs. Barker, erect, efficient and wholesome in office gingham working costume, was tending muffs into a pan, while a rather sulky-looking girl was attending the frying of potatoes.

"Oh, it's you!" Mrs. Barker dropped the spoonful of soft, almost batter-dough into the muffin tins, dusted her hands together—although I could Today's horoscope indicates that the old year may pass out with some little annoyances. It may be wise not to attempt any important change or journey. Those whose birthday it is may have a year of trivial annoyances and setbacks. A child born on this day may find of change.

Today's astrological map shows the opening under most auspicious conditions, with old barriers swept away and opportunity for new and unlooked-for openings. It may be radical and important, but may involve pulling up many old roots and wide departures. But shun quarrels.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of large and excellent opportunity, with change and permanent gain. Avoid quarrels and litigation. Child born on this day will be quick, persevering, and will make rapid progress in life.

Diary of a Fashion Model

She Chats About an Unusually Smart Street Frock Fashioned of Fur.

GOING to my furrier's. Would you like to come along? Madame asked. "I'd love it. This is just the morning for a brisk walk," I replied. "That's exactly why I'm going over to this place instead of letting him come to me," Madame explained.

"It's much too gorgeous to stay in," I agreed.

"I wanted you to come, too, so you could see the fur frock he's making me," Madame explained.

"Oh, are you getting one of those stunning all-fur garments?" I asked Madame.

"Yes, my dear," she answered. "I've fought against it a long time, because I thought perhaps I wasn't slim enough for a fur frock."

"But, Madame—" I protested. She interrupted me, however. "Oh, I know. I'm tall and thin enough for any average garment," she said.

"But fur frocks are so stunning," I protested.

"That's why I wanted one," Madame agreed. "But I had a foolish idea it might be too bulky for me. However, the new pelts are dreams, and this dress of mine is almost as pleasurable to the touch as broadtail."

"What fur is it?" I asked.

"Broadtail," she answered.

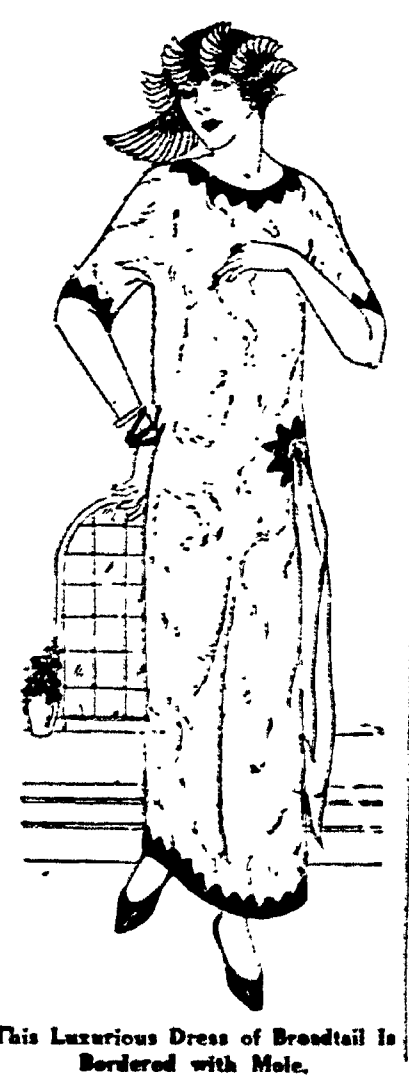

By this time we were turning into the tailor's shop.

"It is ready for Madame to try on, and it is gorgeous," the funny little tailor announced.

When Madame emerged, clad in the new fur dress, I heartily agreed with him.

"Broadtail is the richest, most gorgeous and it's just the black surface," Madame agreed.

THE HOUR

Watch Night

By Juanita Hamel

WHY does there seem to be a special meaning in the changing of the calendar—the simple addition of a higher number to the record of the years? Why isn't there as great a thrill in the striking of the clock which sweeps away any old day—ushering in the new day with all its duties and its possibilities? There is no wondrous change in nature—the midnight is just as starry or as dark as any other.

But it is well, isn't it, that out of three hundred and sixty-five days we give one new day its just measure of thought? Could there be a finer way to welcome every day—despite the hygienic error of waking Baby even though but for the magic minute—than with the tender love and devoted prayers which seem to spring from worthwhile hearts upon this wondrous night?

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT The Man of Mystery

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE Man of Mystery says he thinks he might be able to be good if the prison surgeons would take him to the hospital and operate upon his brain. The Man of Mystery is at Blackwell's Island in New York City. He is a college graduate, he's handsome, well-mannered, of charming personality.

He belongs to a good family and he makes a very fair living; writing magazine stories that are a little more than very fair.

Winifred Black

But he forges checks—every time he gets a chance, he forges a check—and then someone catches him, and he is arrested and goes to prison, and when he gets there behind the bars, he seems to wake up from a confused dream and begins to realize just what it is he has been doing, and now he asks the surgeons to see if they can't help him.

Poor fellow! I wonder if the surgeons can do him any real good. "What a great thing it would be for all of us if we could just have our faults and follies amputated once and for all. It would be worth it, wouldn't it, no matter how much we suffered under the operation?"

A bad temper—how many evils that brings into a man's life! I know a man of great ability who is a complete failure in life just because he was born with a perpetual "grouch."

If the sun shines he wishes it would rain—if it rains, he wishes he were dead. If it's night, he thinks it ought to be morning, and if it's morning, he's hoping it won't be long till night.

Amputate a "Grouch"

And nobody can stand him and nobody is willing to try. Now if he could just go to a hospital and have that "grouch" amputated, he'd be on the road to riches within ten years.

I know a woman who lets her vanity step in between herself and her happiness, like a silly, malicious, fluttering shadow.

She has a good husband and a good home and two good little children, and she loves her husband and she loves her home and she loves her children, but her vanity won't let her alone, so she poses and makes eyes and rushes whenever she sees an interesting man, and the interesting man sometimes misunderstands her and thinks she's a good deal worse than she really is, and she's being talked about, and her husband has heard of it, and the first thing that silly woman knows she's going to be alone in the world with nothing but her vanity to keep her company.

Wouldn't a clever surgeon's knife be a godsend in such a case as that?

Banish Other Troubles

Envy—the woman with the green eyes—she's never happy, never comfortable, never contented, anywhere, anytime, anyhow. She's always delighted when she gets a new hat until she meets somebody else with a newer one, and then her eyes turn greener than ever and she looks and is absolutely miserable.

Egotism—what a hateful, cancerous growth that is! How it will pollute and torture even the finest nature!

"I think, I see, I feel, I hope, I wish"—never "you," never "he," never "she"—always "I, I, I."

Maybe, some day, we'll find a school of medicine which will treat diseases of the character as well as diseases of the body—but dear me, who is going to be brave enough to make the first diagnosis? I'm wondering whether there's a thought for the New Year hidden in this somewhere.

May every day of your new year be brimming with new happiness!

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens. I am considered very attractive and popular. I am in love—at least I think I am. I have a young man four years my senior. I have known this young man for over a year. When he came up to see me last time he told me he had met a girl, and that he went to see her every night. He claims that is all there is to it in the town where he is now living.

"How can I, without being rude or forward, make this certain young man like me more than anyone else? I am not of a jealous nature in the least, but I sincerely wish you could help me to attract his attentions. Do you think he still loves me?"

I do not care to go out with other young men, although I get many inquiries. If I do go out, I keep constantly wishing my friend were near me. I think about him all the time, and know deep in my heart that I care for him more than anyone else.

THIRTY.

THIRTY: You have no right to obstruct your friend going to see another girl, because you are not engaged to him. It would be well for you to accept invitations from other young men, too.

Try to make yourself so attractive and the young man will go to see you. I will prefer you to the other girl. This is all you can do.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens, and I'm going with a young man who said he didn't care for me. He explained that he didn't mean it. I'll be glad to follow your advice. BROWN EYES.

the other night, when I went out with another young man, which made him angry. He then said he didn't care much for me any more.

THIRTY. I love the man, and I can do nothing but think about him. After he said this he made a date with me, but I didn't go. I don't know whether to go with him or not.

Now, there is another young man who says he cares for me, but I don't like him as well as the first. Please advise me what to do. Shall I write him and tell him I don't care to go with any one who said what he said, or shall I ask him if he meant it? After he said he didn't care for me he explained that he didn't mean it. I'll be glad to follow your advice. BROWN EYES.

YOUR HEALTH

A Happy New Year to You and a Long and Joyous Life!

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Commissioner of Health, New York City
U. S. Senator-Elect from New York State

At a dinner a few nights ago I sat next an admiral in the American navy. We were talking about poverty and the over-crowding of the poor. I told him about one square mile in New York city where live five hundred thousand persons. In spite of this great congestion of population the death rate in that quarter is very low.

The admiral said: "Are they happy? One of the greatest sources of longevity is happiness."

That is an idea, isn't it? We know that sadness and grief will shorten life, but have you thought about happiness as a means of extending life?

Tomorrow will be New Year's day. We greet our friends with the cheerful salutation, "Happy New Year!"

DR. COPELAND

It is our custom to do this. Yet take notice that some of the faces out of which these beautiful words will be as mournful and disconsolate in appearance as the features of Buddha.

I suggest that each make this year, 1923, an honest to goodness happy year. Let us mean it when we say "Happy New Year!"

One trouble with many of us is that we worry and fret and stew. We are afraid of this and afraid that that will happen. There isn't one of us but has stayed awake half the night worrying over something which never happened. The exercise of a little common sense would convince us of the foolishness of our fears.

"Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature?"

What is the use of unavailing anxiety? Life is unhappy by many silly fears. One of these is the popular obsession about the "rainy day"—that we must forever struggle to lay up money against evil times. Read the Sermon on the Mount.

"Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?"

We should work and serve, not for the sake of riches, but for the love of our work and service. If we live lives of this sort we can be happy, no matter whether the material reward is large or small. It is not the penny we earn that rejoices us—it is the earning.

There can be no doubt the admiral is right. Happiness does add to the length of days.

Happiness stimulates the heart. It drives the blood in more powerful current through the vessels, to clean the tissues and to clear the brain.

Happiness makes us breathe more deeply. It gives us greater supply of life-giving oxygen.

Happiness excites clear thinking. It gives wisdom and magnetism to the possessor.

Happiness is contagious. It will add to the length of your life, and it will add days to the lives of others with whom you associate.

Let us make this a Happy New Year, indeed, and we shall live longer because of our happiness!

A. D. Q.—I am a girl 19 years of age, height 5 feet 7 1/2 inches. Will you kindly tell me how much I should weigh?

A.—For your age and height you should weigh about 135 pounds.

J. R. T. Q.—I am 17 years old and suffering from a "cough." Will you please tell me how to overcome this condition?

A.—Stop smoking, take deep breathing exercises and exercise regularly out-of-doors.

M. A. C. Q.—I am troubled with palpitation of the heart. Will you please tell me what to do for this trouble?

A.—Probably you are a nervous individual, easily upset by emotion. The first thing to do is to be reassured as regards your health. Have a good doctor examine your heart. Make sure it is normal, as it probably is. The burden yourself up in general health. Sleep in a cool and well-ventilated room and avoid heavy bedding and stimulants. Tea, coffee and tobacco must be used only in moderation. With better general health, your heart symptoms will disappear. Be sure to correct constipation if it is present.

G. P. Q.—Will you please tell me of a good skin bleach?

A.—Lemon juice and peroxide of hydrogen are very effective skin bleaches.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medical, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally, if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. R. S. Copeland, in care of this office.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Here Is a Charming Way to Entertain on New Year's Day.

WISHING our friends the compliments of the season over the tea-cups is a very cozy, "comfy" way of entertaining them. The informal kettle may sing all the afternoon as guests come and go, while a running conversation fills the social hours. Or, if we desire to be formal, and make our tea a function, the kettle should begin its song at a definite hour, and play second fiddle, as it were, to musicians, whose business it is to amuse the guests while they drink of the "cup that cheers."

Christmas greens are still likely to be in evidence, but, of course, fresh flowers will be needed, and as they are apt to be expensive at this season they should be used with discretion. When chosen in red and white with plenty of soft greenery, they make the best showing.

There seems to be a difference of opinion in regard to the best method of serving tea where the table or tables at formal teas are too large for the tea-wagon, unless the food is passed on the tables, preceded over by different tea-pourers, are more successful, while others believe that the long table or large round table, with one hostess at either side or at each end, is better. Then the men may pass the tea and sit where they like or stand while they partake of refreshments. If one large table is used it becomes the buffet or supply centre from which all the dainties are passed.

The decorations of the large table should be simple, consisting merely of a bowl of roses in the centre and candles. At either end a large tray should be placed, with the teapot, sugar, cream, sliced lemon, hot water pot, flower bowl, cups and saucers and teaspoons. At the sides of the table the plates are to hold a sliced olive or a fancy relish or damask napkins. Generally used though in very exclusive circles, since the war, cobwebby, fine paper napkins have taken the place of the linen. Between the plates and the tea-trays are forks and various dishes containing food.

Refreshments for a tea of this sort generally consist of exceedingly varied sandwiches, cut in many shapes, some of the sandwiches may be rolled and others have a circle cut out in the top to hold a sliced olive or a fancy relish. Sweet sandwiches are tempting with a filling of fruit or chopped nuts and a trace of whipped cream. Minced fillings of chicken, fish, minced egg in mayonnaise and various fish combinations are apt to predominate. Cheese mixtures, both savory and sweet, are also very popular.

One thing to be careful about in making sandwiches for an occasion of this sort is to have the filling moist enough to hold the bread, but not moist enough to let the dressing run out or soak the bread. This mistake is made all too frequently, as many can testify who have had gowns spotted and gloves ruined. Sliced tomato sandwiches are old offenders, for the acid juice of the tomato is apt to thin the mayonnaise in a short time unless the sandwiches are left chilled until they are passed.

There are certain cakes considered sacred to the New Year's festival by all old-fashioned housekeepers. One is the famous white fruit or so-called "celestial" cake, which is also very often part of the hostess's gift to the guest. The other is dark fruit cake or chocolate cake. Both these old-fashioned cakes are, in fact, delicious and family affairs. These cakes should be cut in generous slices, and served in a silver cake-basket.

English cakes such as "milk of honor" and "Victoria sandwiches" are popular for New Year's. Many of the small French cakes are used, and a few Viennese cakes, which are particularly delicate and desirable.

Two tea-wagons in circulation during the tea, one with an assortment of sandwiches and the other with cake, make service quick and efficient, and, also, a nuisance, which is desirable if music is going on.

Friends come and go just as at an informal tea, though so many guests attend.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

THE FOOLISH LITTLE FIELD CRICKET.

"O H, dearie me!" Mr. Field Cricket cried, as a cool autumn breeze swept over the grass. "I wish I didn't have to go to bed. I could stand several months more of summer."

"Not me," growled his neighbor, Johnny Grasshopper. "Winter can't come any too soon for me."

"You can have your winter if you want it!" snapped Mr. Field Cricket. "But I don't want it. Oh, I suppose I would if I were like my cousin. Now, every fall, she and her husband gather up their things and move into the farmhouse. It's lovely and warm in there. They can get plenty to eat, and when spring comes again they are just like new crickets."

"What are you crying about, then?" laughed Johnny Grasshopper. "If you know some one who has winter quarters, why don't you take a place with them?"

"Goodness me! I hadn't thought of it," laughed Mr. Field Cricket. "I just believe I'll do that." And away he went to get his things together.

The way was long to the farmhouse, but Mr. Field Cricket sang merrily all the way.

His little cousin was glad to see him, as were all the children. For Mama and Daddy House Cricket had a big family. Mama Cricket and her little ones fixed a lovely dinner. Mr. Field Cricket was too happy for words. He ate all he could hold. Then he ran out beside the chimney where he could look over the big room and began to sing.

Crickets scurried in every direction, and Daddy Cricket clutched Mr. Cricket by the coat-tail and pulled him back behind a clink in the chimney.

"What's the trouble?" panted Mr. Field Cricket. "What have I done?"

"My goodness!" cried Mama Cricket. "You'll have us all run out of house and home with that noise!"

"Noise!" exclaimed Mr. Field Cricket indignantly. "Out in the meadows I was classed as one of the finest singers on the field. Noise!" And he growled so loudly that Daddy and Mama Cricket both laughed.

"Mama Cricket didn't mean that," Daddy Cricket laughed merrily. "You see, it's dangerous for us house crickets to sing in the daytime. It's all right out in the field. But the first thing we have to learn when we move into the farmhouse is to be just as quiet as we can in the daytime."

"You'd see where we'd be by this time if that red-faced cook were at home," laughed Mama Cricket. "She'd soon throw the whole lot of us out of the house. But at night she sleeps upstairs, and can't hear us. The mistress often hears us singing at night, but she calls it luck."

Several times that day Mr. Field Cricket burst out into cheerful song. But after Daddy Cricket had almost yanked his feelers off, Mr. Field Cricket packed up his duds and went back into the meadows where he could sing all day. And when the cold came he could come down under the old oak tree and sleep until spring. It was the last time he complained of the cold.

TERMS OFFERED STATE OF ITALY BY THE VATICAN

ROME, Dec. 30.—Negotiations for a reconciliation between the Italian state and the Vatican have reached the stage where actual terms have been proposed. It was learned in official circles today.

The terms of the Vatican were outlined as follows:

1. Papal sovereignty shall be recognized over the palaces in the Vatican gardens and at Villa Castle Gandolfo as well as other buildings which have been the property of the church for centuries.

2. Pope Pius XI shall renounce all other territorial claims but will request an annuity of 2,200,000 lire annually which has been a standing offer of the Italian government since 1870.

3. An agreement which it ratified, shall be communicated to all foreign governments together with guarantees of the independence of the church.

The negotiations have taken definite form since the Fascist headed by Mussolini came into power.

Pope Pius XI is favorable toward the proposals and at the time of his accession to the papal throne last year it was reported that one of the first official actions of the papal government would be to make an offer to the Italian government.

LAUSANNE, Dec. 30. Richard Washburn Child, one of the three American observers at the Near East conference, announced today that friends of Armenia are planning to ask the American congress for a gift of $20,000,000 to assist the creation of an Armenian national state.

In addition to the proposed appropriation, an Armenian loan is to be floated in the United States.

SMITH WILL HOLD UP CERTIFICATES

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30. Althea common pleas Judge Duncan today lifted that part of an injunction which restrained Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith from issuing a commission to Franklyn Commissioner Fleet Milton W. Westlake, Columbus, Secretary placing the existing bridge at that point.

Upon advice of the engineer corps the secretary decided that the new bridge, which would be higher and wider than the old, would not impede navigation.

FRANCE TO OPPOSE ANY ATTEMPT TO ORGANIZE KLAN

"Sect Of Crazy Puritans," French Newspaper Dubs American Ku Klux

PARIS, Dec. 30.—The American Ku Klux Klan will have a difficult time gaining a foothold in France, according to Parisian newspapers today.

Advises from New York had quoted "Imperial Giant" Edward Young Clarke as saying that a movement was on foot to extend the organization all over the world and that he soon would open headquarters in London.

"The American Ku Klux Klan will not find any welcome in continental Europe," says the Echo de Paris. "It is an organization of such character as is not wanted on this side of the Atlantic."

"It is a detestable sect of crazy puritans," said L'Intransigeant. "They are responsible for assassinations, burnings and destruction of churches filled with religious treasures. It is a mysterious society, working in the dark, committing crimes for which the perpetrators are never punished."

European newspapers of late have been filled with dispatches from the United States detailing the activities of the Ku Klux Klan.

SEES GREATER U. S. TRADE WITH JAPAN

Suzuki Main Nippon Shipper, Says Oriental Business Is Just Beginning

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 30.—Trade possibilities between the United States and Japan are just beginning to be realized, according to I. Suzuki, Japan's foremost steamship operator.

He predicts a great increase in trans-Pacific traffic between America and the Nipponese empire during the coming years.

Suzuki, visiting America for the first time in twenty-five years, is amazed at changes.

"Everywhere everything has changed," Suzuki declared, speaking through an interpreter. "New York and Chicago are different cities, with streets, automobiles instead of horses, and skyscrapers."

Suzuki said Japan had passed the after-war depression and pointed out facts indicating a return to normal conditions.

"Building has started again in Japan, which means we can take more American lumber. Our forests are becoming exhausted. Factories being built to some extent. We are importing more and more foodstuffs from this great country every year."

"The United States is bound to participate in Japan's growing commerce. My country feels much more friendly to America as time goes on."

Suzuki, in company with his party, spent several months traveling in Europe and Asia. He also visited many American ports.

Suzuki is known as one of Japan's leading capitalists. He is the son of Yoni Suzuki, celebrated Japanese woman, said to be the wealthiest woman in the Mikado's domain. She is 72 years of age and conducts her own business affairs.

OHIO BANK WINS SUIT AGAINST CITY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30.—Judgment of the Mahoning co appellate court for $141,526 in favor of the First National Bank, Youngstown, and against the city of Youngstown, was affirmed today by the state supreme court. The award represents payments made in connection with the emergency police force maintained during the steel strike at Youngstown in 1919.

The supreme court also upheld the appellate court's action in finding against the bank relative to a $24,000 claim for expenditures for automobiles, patrol wagons and other police equipment.

BOILERS EXPLODE; MAN IS KILLED

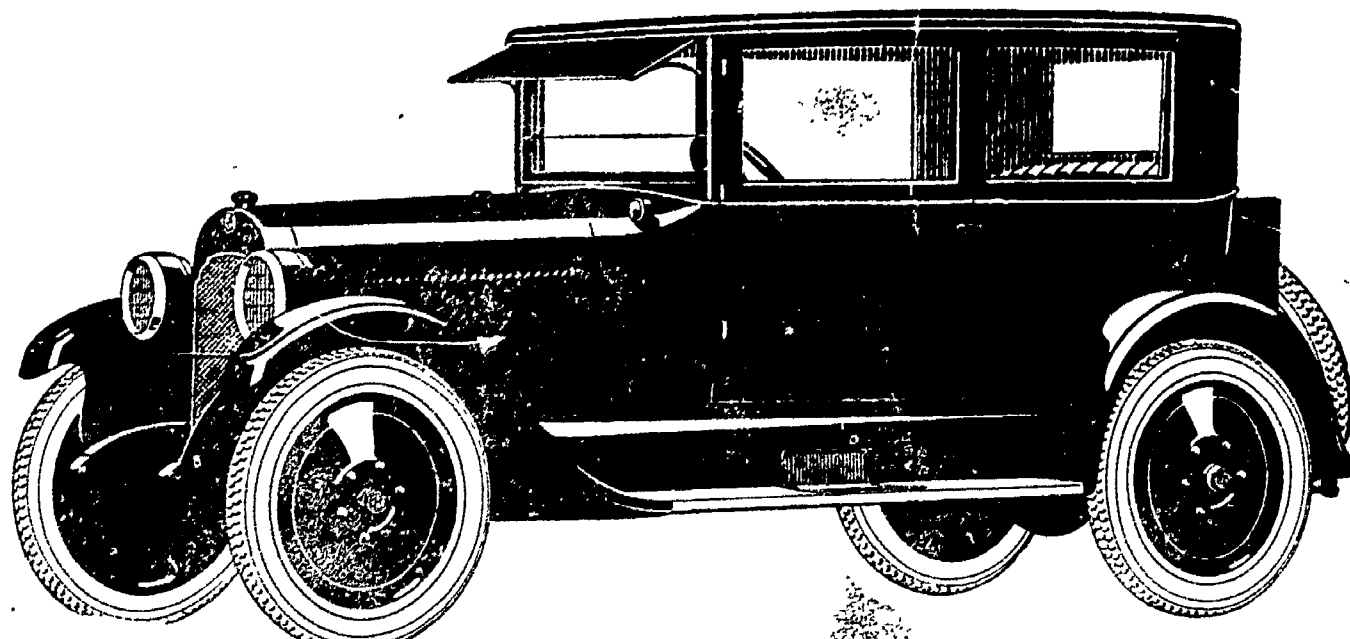

GALLIPOLIS, O., Dec. 30.—Rolling mill in the plant of the Gallipolis hat company exploded today, fatally injuring Edward Radwale, a member of the firm and demolishing part of the plant which was set on fire, but put out with little damage. Several workmen narrowly escaped death.

TO BUILD BRIDGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Secretary of War Weeks today approved the plans of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for a new bridge across the south end of Newark bay, to replace the existing bridge at that point.

Upon advice of the engineer corps the secretary decided that the new bridge, which would be higher and wider than the old, would not impede navigation.

KNAPP TO DEFEND BUCK HERZOG IN BASEBALL CASE

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 30.—Charles H. Knapp, famous in baseball as legal adviser to Jack Dunn, once elected president of the international league and for years a figure in the fight against the draft was today engaged by Buck Herzog to clear any suspicion around his name in connection with the Babe Benton case.

Herzog was involved in the original Benton scandal, being accused jointly with Hal Chase, of having offered Babe a sum of money to throw a game to the Cubs in 1920.

There was a hearing before President Heydler at the time. Nothing was ever done with either Benton or Herzog.

But Herzog is not satisfied with that. Benton is back in the National League and Herzog is out of organized baseball.

"Herzog has instructed to spare no money or pains to clear up the case," said Knapp.

"We have gone over the case carefully, and I am more than ever convinced of Herzog's honesty."

"There will be no passing of the buck this time. Baseball authorities must either clear Herzog of any possible connection with the case or convict him."

"Herzog is not sure he ever will be connected with organized ball again, but that doesn't matter. He has a great amount of pride in his standing in Baltimore and Maryland where he has lived all his life."

TEN TIMES POSTPONED, M'CORMICK'S WEDDING NOW IS CALLED OFF

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Allister McCormick, young Chicago millionaire who holds the world's record for being left waiting at the church, and his temperamental fiancée, Miss Mary Landon Baker, also of Chicago, have parted after a spectacular, international romance of three years, according to a report in the American colony today.

During the long and ardent courtship which extended from California to New York, thence to Paris, Italy and London, the wedding date has been set ten different times. On three occasions the church was set and the guests present but the bride failed to appear. Various excuses were given, the chief one being that the bride to be was indisposed.

Miss Baker and Mr. McCormick spent Christmas in London, but now they have separated. Miss Baker has gone to the country to visit friends while McCormick is on his way to the south of France to recuperate from an illness.

Friends of the couple said that no plans for a future wedding have been announced. When the young couple came to London it was said that they would be married at the home of Mr. McCormick's relatives at Weybridge.

INSISTS REPORT WAS EXAGGERATED

Denying the report that he was drunk and horsewhipped his children or struck his mother-in-law, Wesley Mathany, who was brot before Mayor Fish and given a suspended fine said Saturday that he had been drinking blackberry wine, not moonshine.

His statement Saturday was to the effect that the story had been told, supposedly by a neighbor, who "lives in a bigger glass house than I do, and should not throw stones." He added that he corrected the children with a small switch, but had too much respect for his family to strike a woman.

M'KOIN'S FRIENDS OFFER TO PUT UP BAIL IN ANY SUM

BASTROP, La., Dec. 30.—Friends of Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, have guaranteed to furnish his bail in any sum that might be desired. It was stated today by Travis Oliver, president of the Monroe Central Savings Bank & Trust Co.

Whether this financial backing is furnished by the Ku Klux Klan could not be ascertained.

"Reliable parties have guaranteed their support and there will be no limit to the funds we will offer," said Oliver, thru whose bank the offer for bail for Dr. McKoin was telegraphed to Baltimore, where the former mayor is under arrest on a murder charge.

LESS THAN MINUTE REQUIRED FOR OHIO ASSEMBLY TO QUALIFY

COLUMBUS, Dec. 30.—At a session lasting only 43 seconds, the 84th general assembly of Ohio legally terminated the existence of its last branch.

In the absence of Speaker Beahm, Cadiz, and Representative Crabbe, London, speaker pro tem, the approximately 25 members present selected Representative Richard Edwards, Cleveland, as temporary speaker. A motion was then made by Representative Richard Hawkins also of Cleveland providing sine die adjournment, was unanimously adopted.

QUIET NEW YEAR TO BE OBSERVED AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The advent of the new year will be ob- served quietly at the Whitehouse this year.

Contrary to previous custom, there will be no New Year's recep- tion at the executive mansion. The ceremony, in the past which has drawn thousands to grasp the hand of the president and his wife, is to be omitted.

President Harding plans to lay aside entirely the cares and worries of his office and spend the day with Mrs. Harding, truly thankful for her miraculous recovery from the illness which began last Sep- tember and for awhile threatened to end in death.

No formalities have been planned for the day. As on Thanksgiv- ing, and Christmas, the president and Mrs. Harding will dine togeth- er, downstairs, probably receiving very close friends.

The new year finds Mrs. Har- ding still very weak, but steadily and surely returning to at least a substantial semblance of her former health. She will soon be able to walk about the house, and pos- sibly within another month, she may be able to resume some of her duties as the first lady of the land.

Curiously the fact that there can be no New Year's reception is the only thing which mars the hap- piness of the holiday for Mrs. Har- ding. Always energetic, she has in- formed friends of her regret as to her inability to celebrate the day.

Well wishes for the New Year are pouring into the Whitehouse from foreign rulers, high govern- ment officials and admirers all over the land.

EUGENIC MARRIAGES DO NOT ELIMINATE IDIOCY, PROF. SAYS

BOSTON, Dec. 30.—Eugenic mar- riages do not provide a solution for the problem of eliminating feeble mindedness, idiosyncrasy and degeneracy, Dr. W. E. Wallin, Lam university, told a gathering of scientists here today.

Prof. Wallin recently completed an examination of 3500 school chil- dren, both normal and sub-normal. He declared many of the so-called sub-normal children were the off- spring of parents who were ap- parently well mated from an eugenic standpoint.

The real causes of feeblemind- edness he defined as follows:
1.—Effects of poison of either the male or female germ plasma.
2.—Blows on the child's head, either before or after birth which cause brain lesions.
3.—Mechanical injuries to the child's nervous system.

AUTO THIEF TAKEN IN KENTUCKY TOWN

CINCINNATI, Dec. 30.—Chief of Detectives Emmett Kirgan and a squad of detectives left for Paris, Ky., to bring back Jack Rose, alias Turner of Lexington, Ky., wanted here on a charge of shooting to kill.

Rose engaged in a revolver duel with detectives several weeks ago. He was wounded, but escaped from the General hospital. With him when arrested were Chas. Wil- liams and James Thompson want- ed here on robbery charges and for aiding Rose to escape.

Dorothy Tingle, 22, of Lexington, arrested with Rose here, also was apprehended in Paris. She had been taken to Lexington in connec- tion with the theft of an automo- bile.

Rose is wanted in Dayton, Ohio, Lexington, Ky., Louisville, Ky., and other cities in connection with au- tomobile thefts.

Federal authorities have hunted for him for months.

AMERICAN PLAN TO BE BRIEFLY HEARD IN FRENCH PARLEY

LONDON, Dec. 30. — The American proposal for an international commission of financiers to fix the amount of the German indemnity will be discussed by Allied premiers when they assemble in Paris next Tuesday.

Present indications are that the American plan will receive only secondary consideration, while the Allied statesmen will attempt to settle the reparations and debt problem along the line originally inaugurated at London. Four other plans, presented respectively by French, English, Italians and Germans will be ready for the premiers when they meet in what may be the last conference of the war-allied nations. England has indicated her intention to withdraw from negotiations if settlement cannot be reached at Paris.
